WEST LAFAYETTE HIGH SCHOOL

WEST LAFAYETTE, INDIANA

Accepting

FOREWARD

In today's world of advanced technology and tense social conditions, a young and thriving nation such as ours must have leaders with courage, intelligence, stamina, and youthful vitality. As a building is strong by its foundations, a country must also be strong by its construction. In a free democracy, these young, energetic individuals do not come from aristocratic or royal families, but from high schools much like ours. However, these prospective leaders need guidance in how to accept the challenge of the future. Such a force of instruction is West Lafayette.

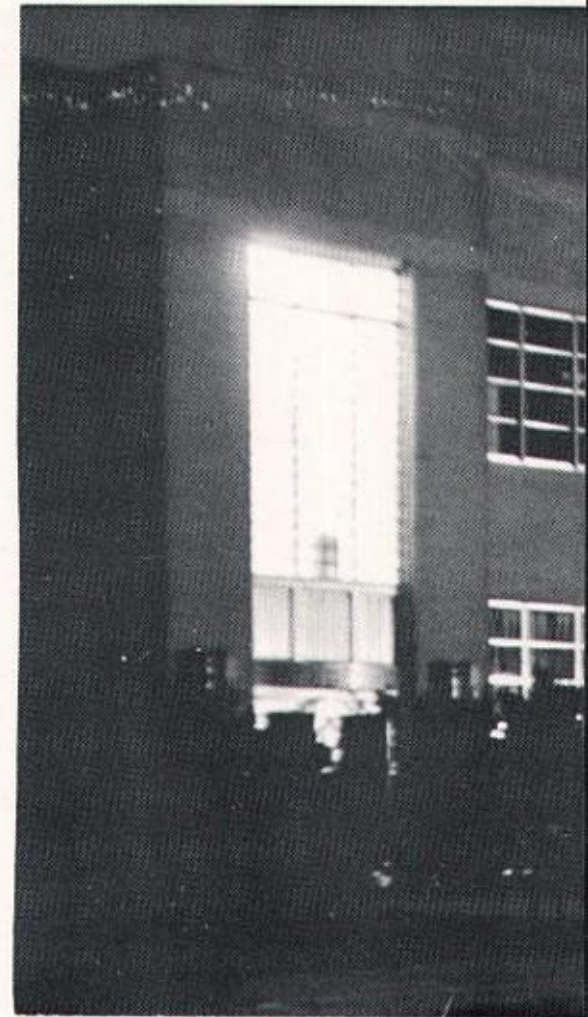

Looking back over four years at West Side, a senior recalls many encounters during his high school career. Each experience helped prepare him for the challenges of life. As a senior looks at the opportunities ahead, he will remember his years at West Side and move forward . . .

The Challenge

Through

A slide rule, a table of sines, a pen, and paper find preference over some of the other pleasures of life while a West Side student diligently prepares his lesson for the following day.

Considering commercial art as a career, students listen to one of the professional people who spoke on Career Day.

Achieving Excellence In Academic Phases. . .

The light of learning never sets as students continue their experiments at night.

Frequent student-teacher conferences help achieve excellence.

All phases of life at West Side involve learning: learning how to get along with people and with ourselves, learning new sports, but most obvious, learning through our academic work--this being the basic purpose of school.

Here, in our academic classes, we learn to meet many of the challenges of high school life: the meticulous experiments to find the unknown in chemistry... the careful deciphering of a geometry problem... the disheartening attempt to speak with a French accent... that ardent endeavor to understand Shakespeare. As we face and overcome these, we are ACCEPTING THE CHALLENGE.

Through Serving The School And Community

Serving the school, Hi-Y boys sell cokes.

The sound of giggling voices and screams peals through the cafeteria at the Panorama Christmas party.

Accepting The Responsibility Of Leadership. . .

Darkness covers the classroom as a TEC member runs the projector for the teacher.

West Siders rushed through a whirlwind of activity as they attended dances, went on paper drives, cheered the Devil teams on to victory, and participated in a myriad of other projects.

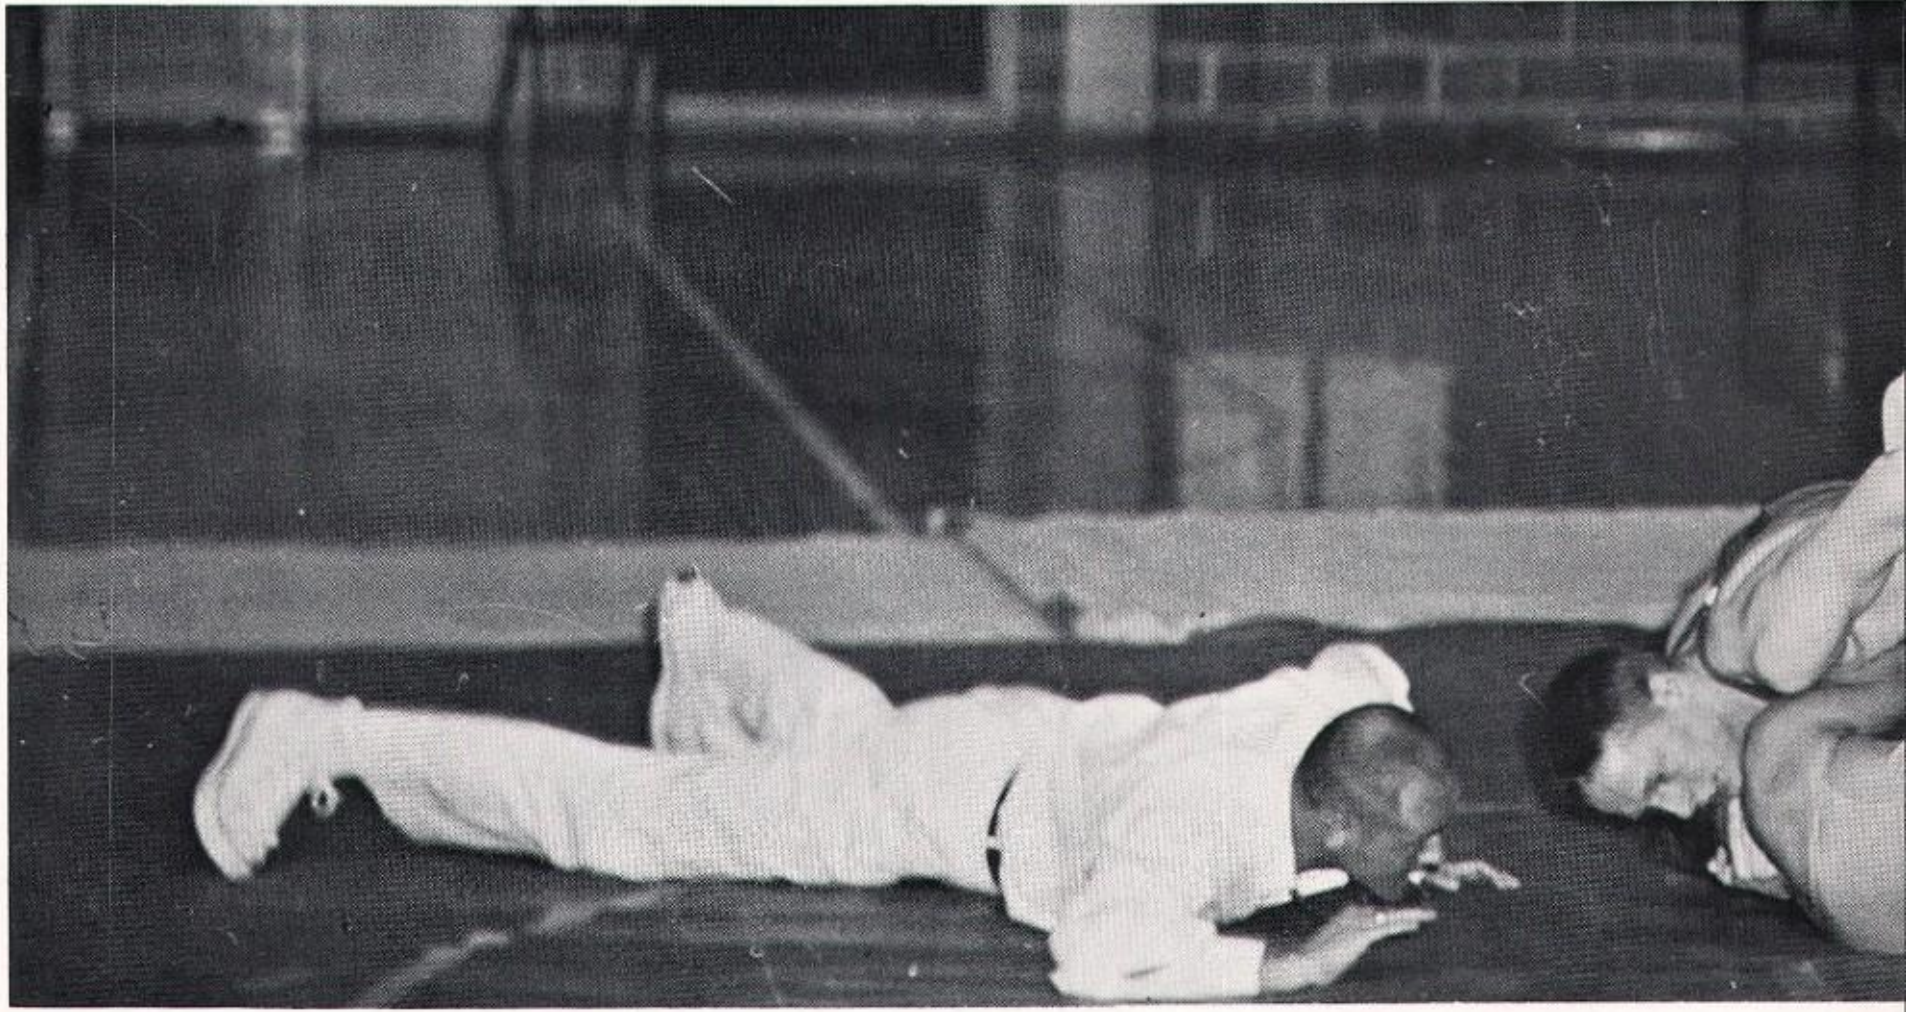

Selling knives and pennants kept the junior class busy as they earned enough money to put on the Prom, and the seniors struggled just as hard to finance their Gala Week.

Speech Arts, Hi-Y, Panorama, Pep Club, Science Club, TEC, SCARLETTE, and the SCAR-

LET and GRAY all had a load of activities. Besides the fun of working on the plays, committees, and crews, West Siders obtained much experience in every facet of working together and leading others.

Constantly on the move, West Siders made this year a most memorable one while MEETING THE CHALLENGE of responsibility and leadership in clubs and school organizations.

By Exhibiting Good Sportsmanship, Students

Arousing school spirit, a Red Devil back makes a sharp cut to avoid onrushing defenders.

Arouse Spirit And Active Competition. . .

Competing against others, a Red Devil matman works hard to pin his man.

Sports are not just for people who know and enjoy them, but also for students who feel an attachment and a respect for their school. They give everyone the opportunity to support their team and to ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE of sportsmanship. The pressure of an athletic contest is felt by everyone attending the event, for the players and the fans alike realize they are representing West Side.

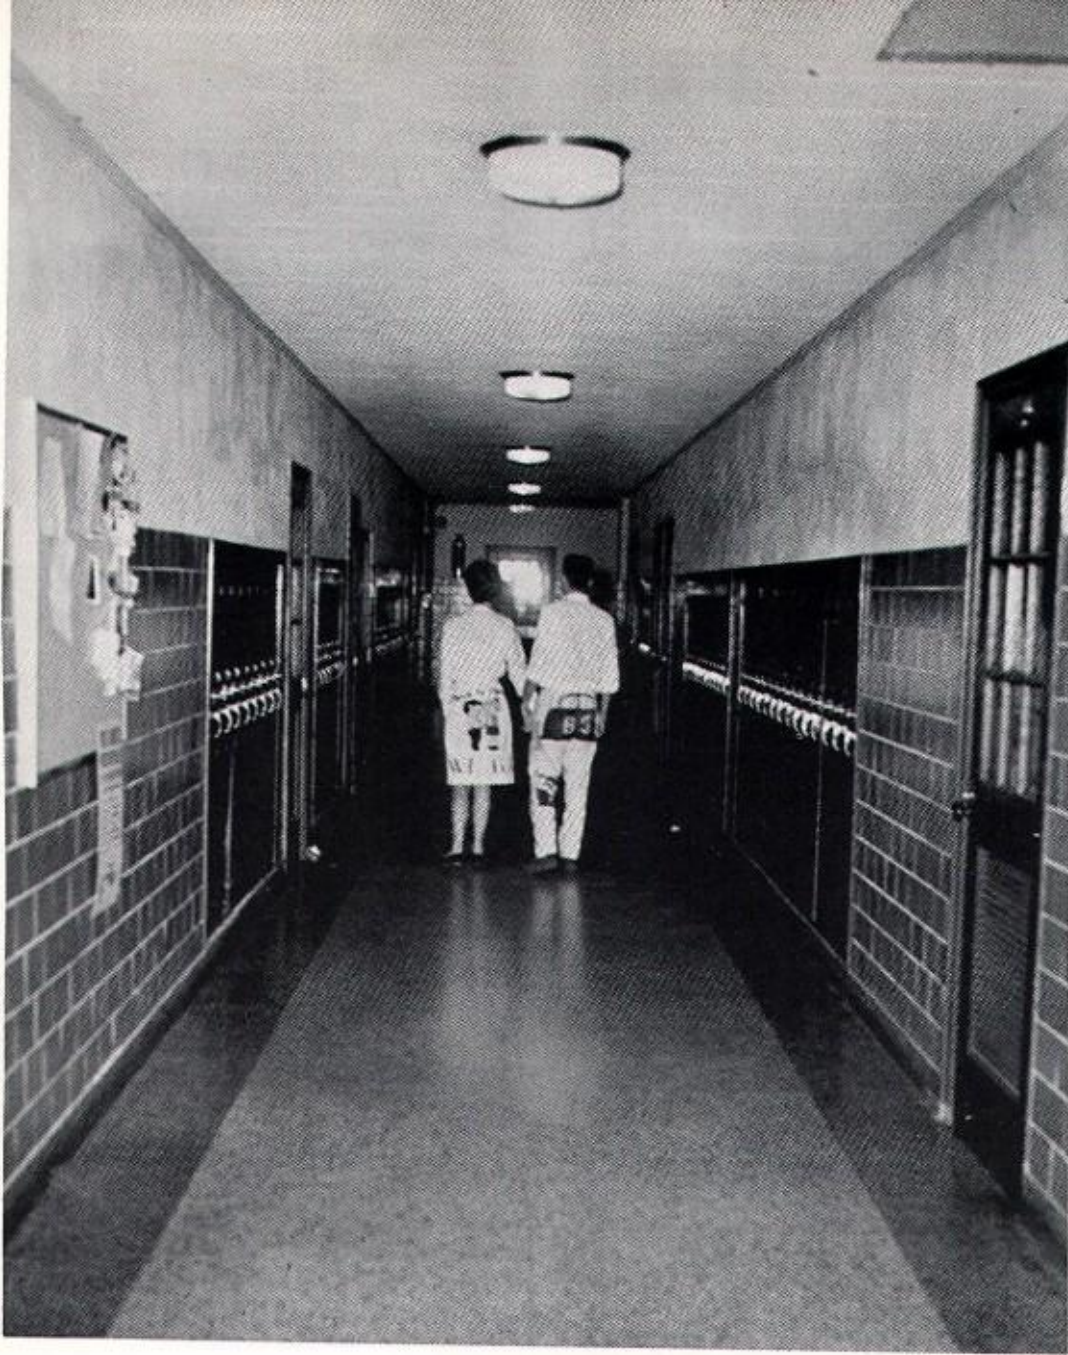

But the match is more to the player himself; it is the climax of continual practice and hard work. It is a game in which his experience and skill are tested and he can learn to work as one unit with his teammates. Win or lose, the player finishes the contest with experience and knowledge which he can use in the future and which he will never forget.

The players and the fans all have their part in making sports a primary interest at West Side.

Arms fly as players scurry to get the ball.

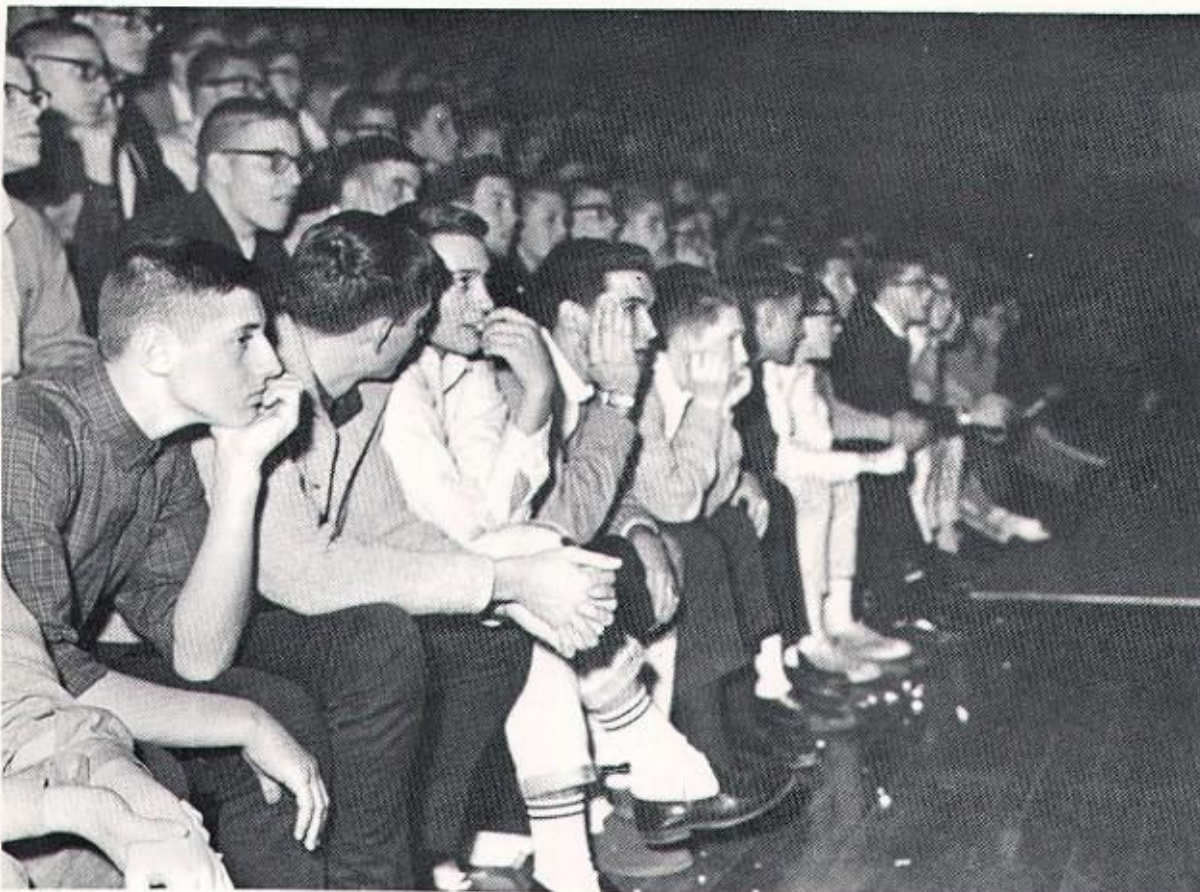

Through

The hall deadens as the last students leave the school.

The crowd is hushed as they wait for the ball to roll in the basket.

Achievement, Leadership, And Friendship

Excitement is evident as the clock strikes twelve.

High School is made up of people MEETING THE CHALLENGE—the challenge of homework, of responsibility, of friendships—the challenge of life.

We first recognized this challenge through the guidance of our teachers. We learned the basic tools with which to meet it and from experiences, how to apply these tools to conquer successfully the challenge that confronted us.

Our high school years will be remembered as the period in our lives when we first awakened to our duties and obligations to our friends and to ourselves. It has been a long, sometimes hard road to travel, and we are not through yet.

Fun and frolics flavor the lives at West Side during the winter months.

The Challenge

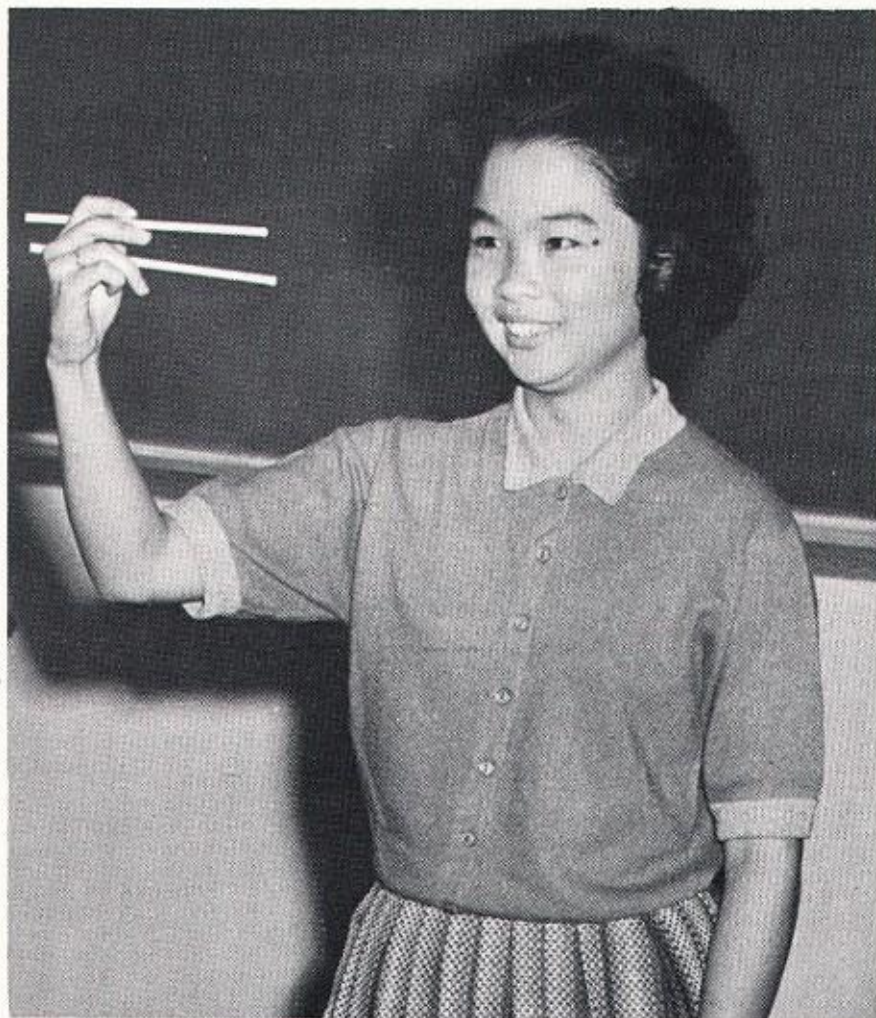

ACADEMICS

Above anything else, a school can be strong only if the academics provide a firm foundation. The faculty and academic structure of West Side are certainly of superior quality, and this eminence helps to prepare its students for the upcoming challenges of college and life. Although many schools emphasize athletics and activities, academics take precedence at West Side. However, athletics and activities are added to the basic structure of academics to provide an equilibrium which leads to a better balanced student. Many of the challenges of school life are found in academic classes: the philosophy of Socrates, advanced math courses, mechanical drawing, shop, and varied science courses. Basically, the program is constructed about the college-bound student. This academic program is the first vital step in leading the student toward meeting . . .

Of Learning . . .

The English Department Stimulates Interest

Stella Lam demonstrates chopsticks, a familiar object to her, as diversified knowledge is helpful in speech class.

"That certainly is a good outline," remarks a student in journalism class.

Freshman English students quickly learn that the spoken word is just as important as the written word.

In Dramatics, Speech, And Language Skills

Janet Pickett shows a newspaper from the time of Silas Marner.

It is no news to Tom Butz that "until" is a conjunction.

The students' accumulation of knowledge of communication is the goal of our English department. Freshman English, the start of a four year requirement, was taught by Miss Sandra Johnson and Mr. Richard Trent. Students were taught the fundamentals of English the first semester. Great Expectations and Shakespeare were studied in the second semester course.

Concentration was placed on themes during the sophomore and junior years by Mrs. Carolyn McClintock, Mrs. Elizabeth Leer, and Mr. Richard Trent. Mrs. Leer organized a new course teaching Plato as well as other philosophers to an accelerated group this year.

Miss Ruth Sinks taught senior English literature and composition. The seniors read all the way from Beowulf to modern English literature the first semester. More advanced forms of English composition were presented the second semester.

Although four years of English are required, students may also earn credit in journalism, speech, and dramatics. Mrs. Carolyn McClintock taught journalism, a favorite for those who like to write. Mrs. Mary Helen Kahn, the speech teacher, stressed research, organization, and outlining as well as building the student's confidence.

The importance of proper English is agreed upon by Miss Ruth Sinks, Miss Sandra Johnson, Mrs. Carolyn McClintock, Mr. Richard Trent, Mrs. Elizabeth Leer, and Mrs. Mary Helen Kahn.

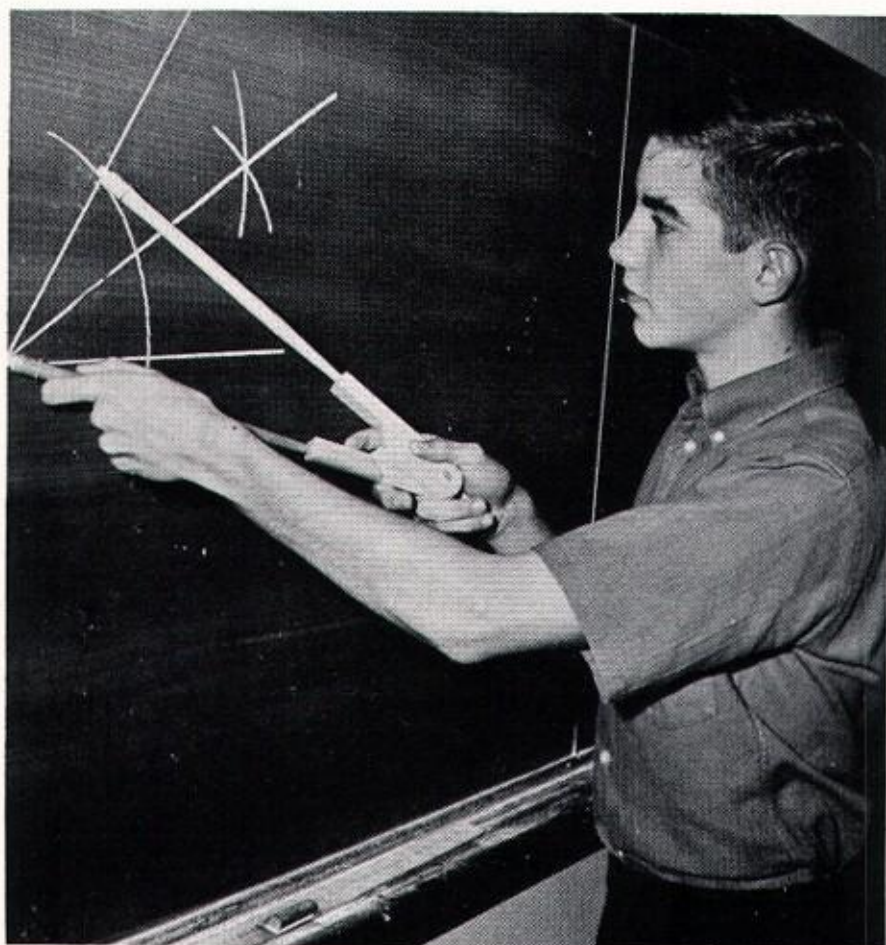

Five Years Of Math Offered, Giving Pupils

The Math Department--Mrs. Katheran Brady, Mrs. Marian Paradiso, Mr. Donald Fites, Mr. John DeYoung, and Mr. Kenneth Tatlock.

George Revington bisects an angle for the benefit of his plane geometry class.

"Wrong sign, again," and another math student starts to solve his problem for the fourth time in one day.

West Lafayette added another math teacher, Mrs. Marian Paradiso, to the department this year. Mrs. Paradiso instructed two freshman algebra classes in addition to an experimental advanced algebra class. Also teaching freshman algebra was Mr. John DeYoung. An experimental geometry course was directed by Mr. DeYoung.

Mr. Kenneth Tatlock is continuing his job as pilot of the plane geometry course, and is teaching advanced algebra for the first time here at West Side. Mrs. Katheran Brady instructs geometry classes which cover the material in three semesters.

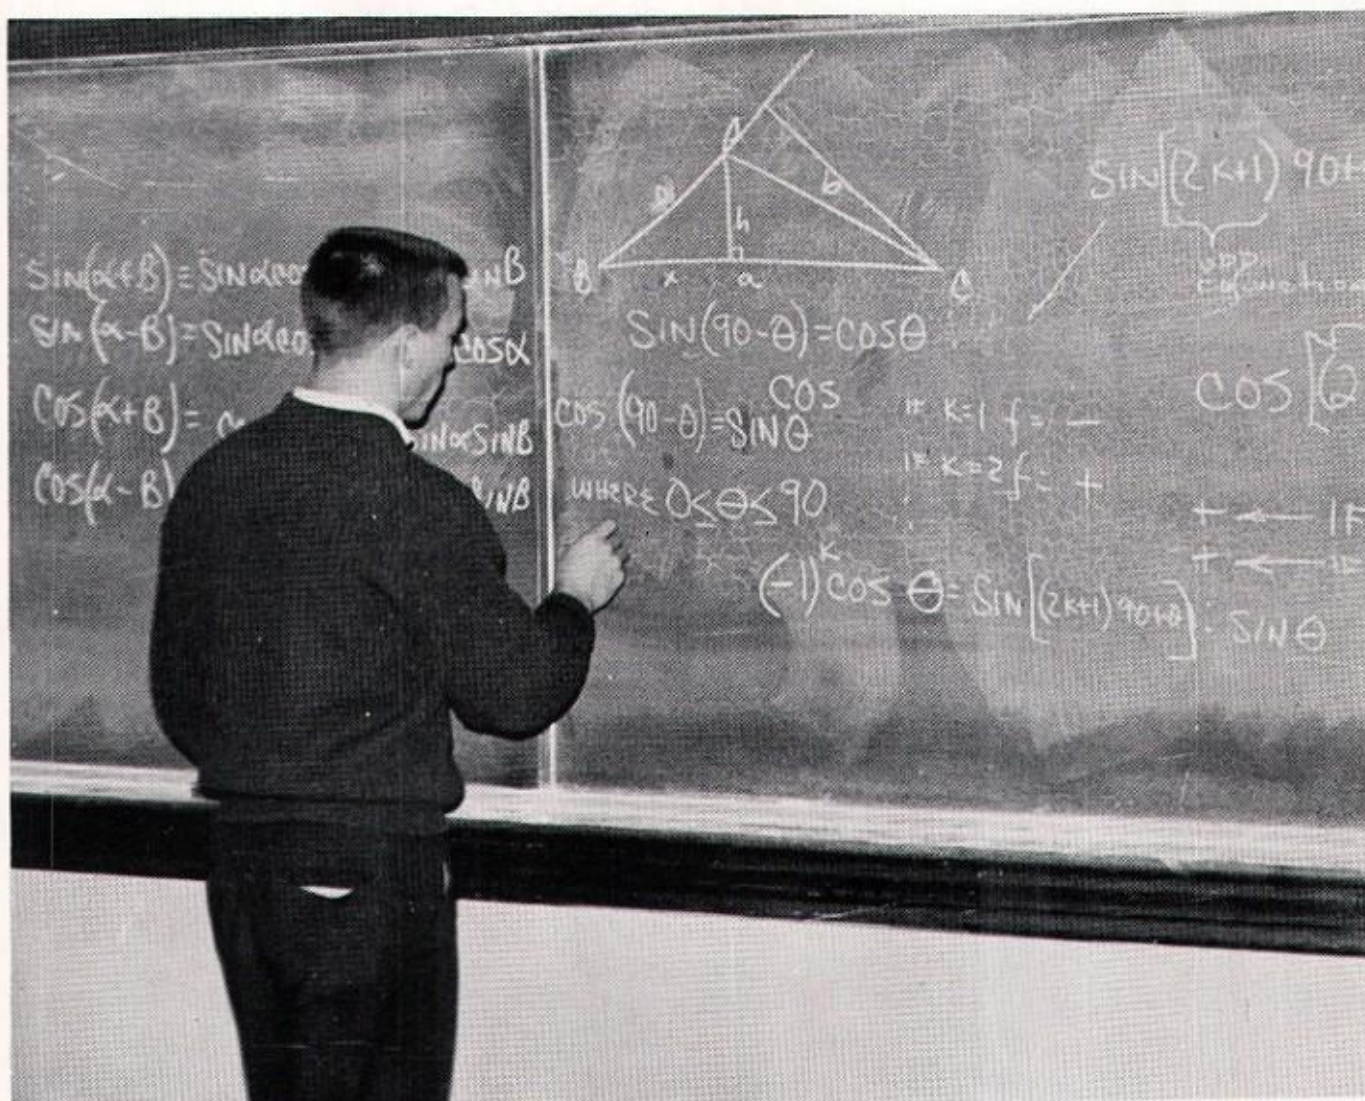

Mr. Donald Fites completes the math department by teaching three advanced algebra courses as well as the two senior courses, Foundations of Advanced Mathematics and Fundamentals of Freshman Mathematics.

With this staff of five teachers, a student at West Lafayette has many opportunities to tailor his education in order to specialize in any one of the mathematical fields.

Freshman algebra students plot graphs on pegboards to reach a better understanding of equations.

The Opportunity To Enrich Their Background

"Therefore $\cos(90-x) = \sin(x)$," concludes Bob Steele, a Math 55 student.

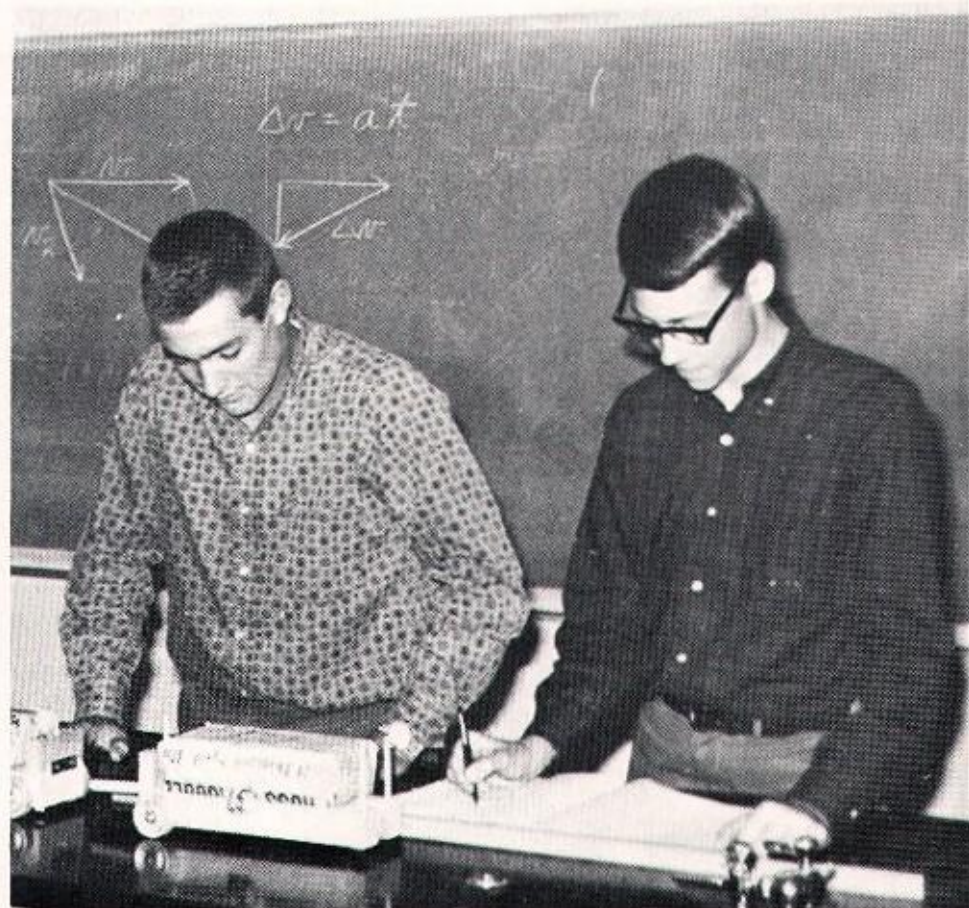

Some West Side math students take courses at Purdue to quench their thirst for knowledge.

Accelerated Science Programs, New Labs Provide

"Don't drop the crucible in the fire, Marianne!"

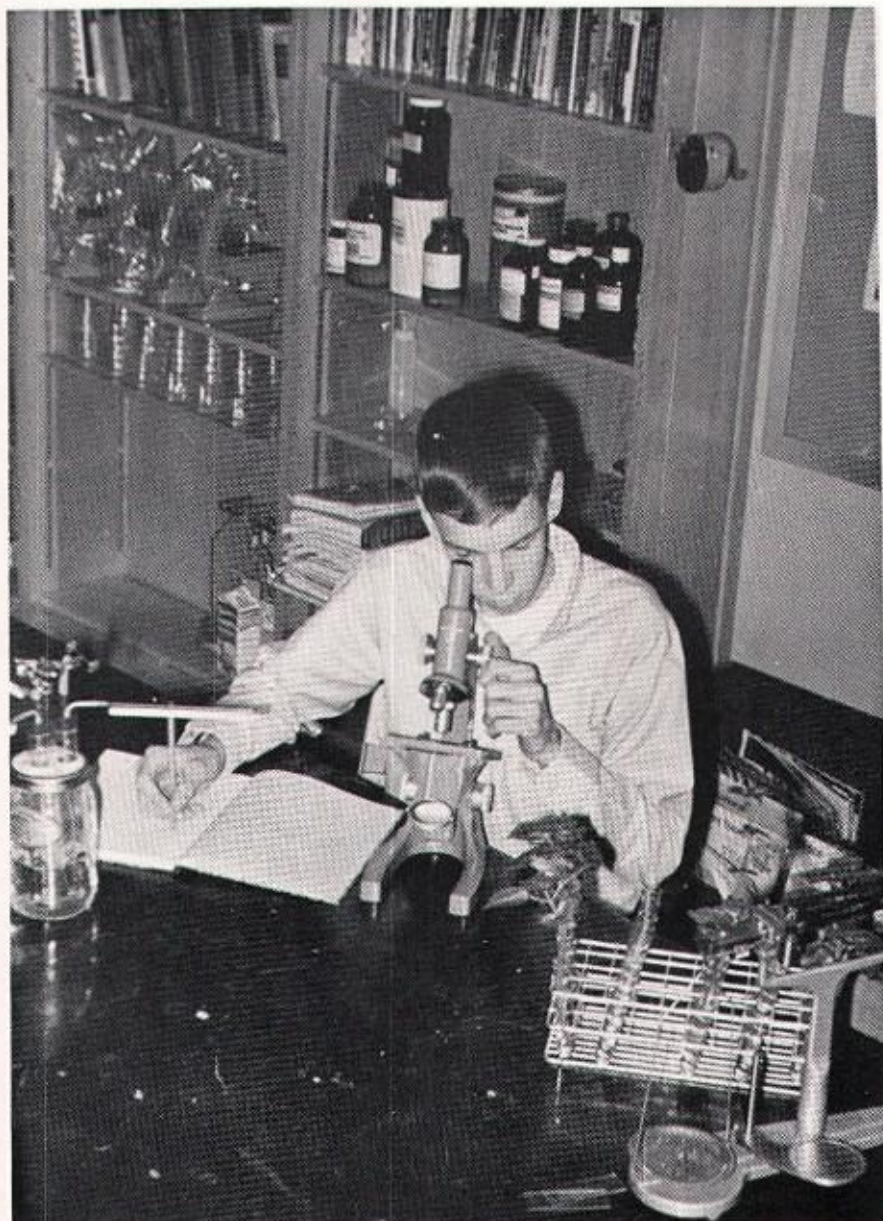

Kent Jacobs and Bob Bowman record data for a motion lab.

Busy chemistry students hurry to complete their labs on time.

Stimulation To All Interested Students

Larry Christensen peers into the world of "microbes."

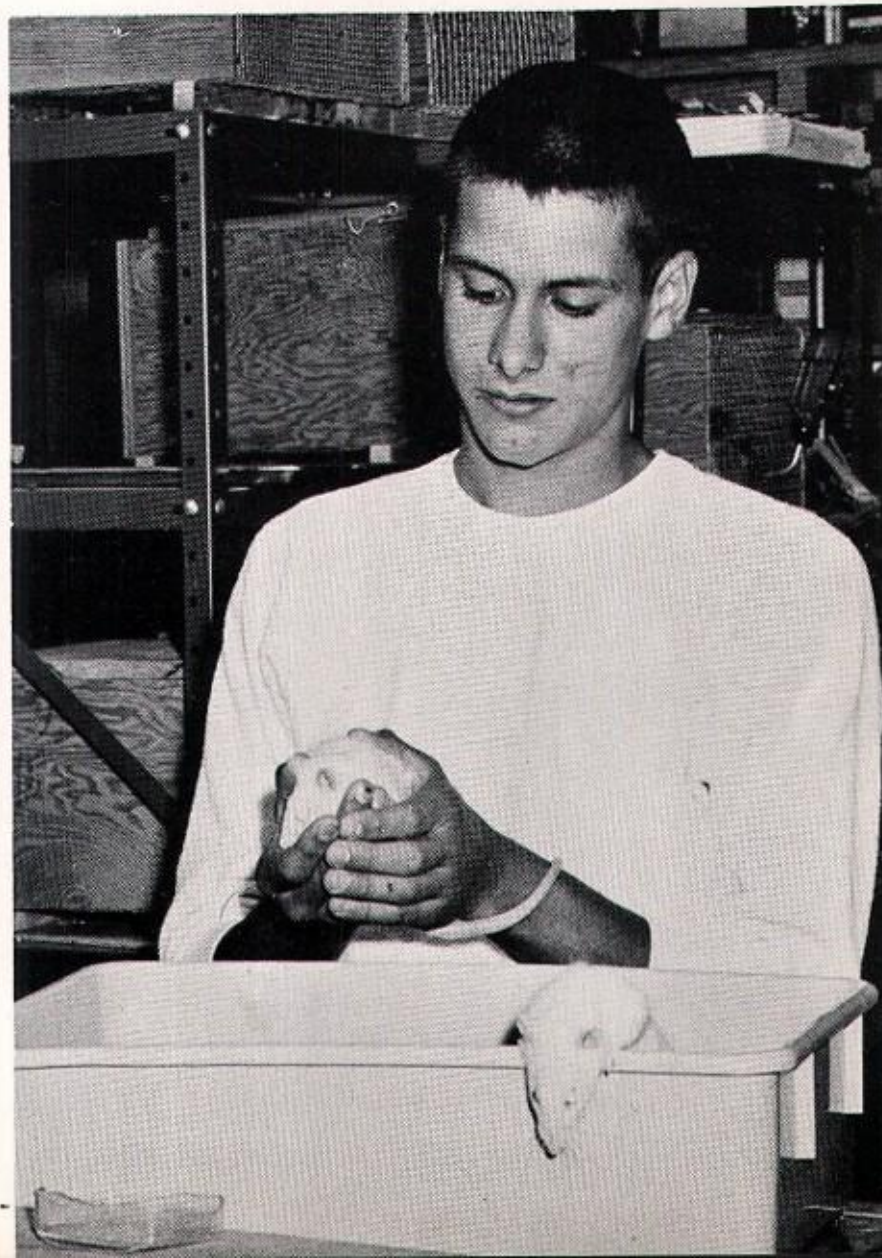

Everyone delved into the mysteries of scientific exploration, as emphasis was placed on creative thinking. Modern biology was taught by Mr. Kenneth Bush and Mr. Weldon Witters. Classification of insect collections helped the biology students learn about the scientific method. Germination, radiation, and chromatology were the main sections of advanced biology, a new addition.

Basic chemistry students discovered the realm of the elements and their behaviors under the direction of Mr. James Guy and Mr. Robert Sum. Much lab work was stressed in the accelerated and advanced chemistry classes. Mr. Robert Sum also taught basic and advanced physics. Interest in physics increased, as more people than ever took this complex subject.

Weighing problems of teaching science are Mr. Kenneth Bush, Mr. James Guy, Mr. Weldon Witters, and Mr. Robert Sum.

"Oh rats! They got out again," exclaimed Carlton Potts.

History Department Combines Past, Present

Mr. Oliver Oesch, Mr. Charles Banning, Mr. Joseph Krause, and Mr. Jack Morgan coordinate their curriculum.

The Social Studies department stressed ideas rather than specific details this year.

Mr. Oliver Oesch and Mr. Joseph Krause taught world history, in which the students learned about the ancient civilizations and their influence on modern ways of life.

American history classes, instructed by Mr. Charles Banning and Mr. Krause, concentrated on current events. This study of world affairs took most of the second semester. There was much work outside of class, including many reports, for the general purpose of acquainting the students with the problems of today and tomorrow.

Mr. Jack Morgan also emphasized current events as he led the economics classes into the world of the stock market, the Federal Reserve System, and other facets of the American economic system. His government course was concerned with our own federal form of government and the many functions it performs. Knowledge of procedure of elections was gained including the candidates, their party, and platforms.

To Prepare West Side Students For Future

Doug Livingston interprets a passage from the Federalist Papers in American history.

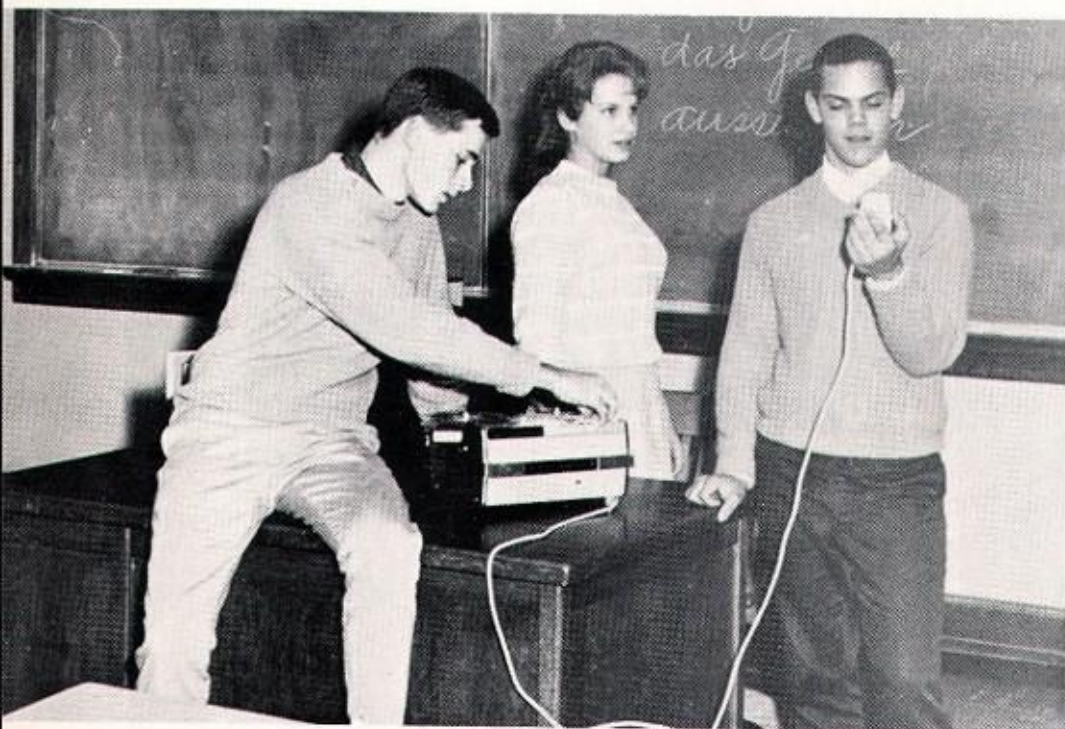

Even African problems have a conservative and liberal viewpoint as seniors, Dan Cable, Dave Adams, and Steve Eisinger point out.

Mark smiles as Mike's stocks took a tumble the day before.

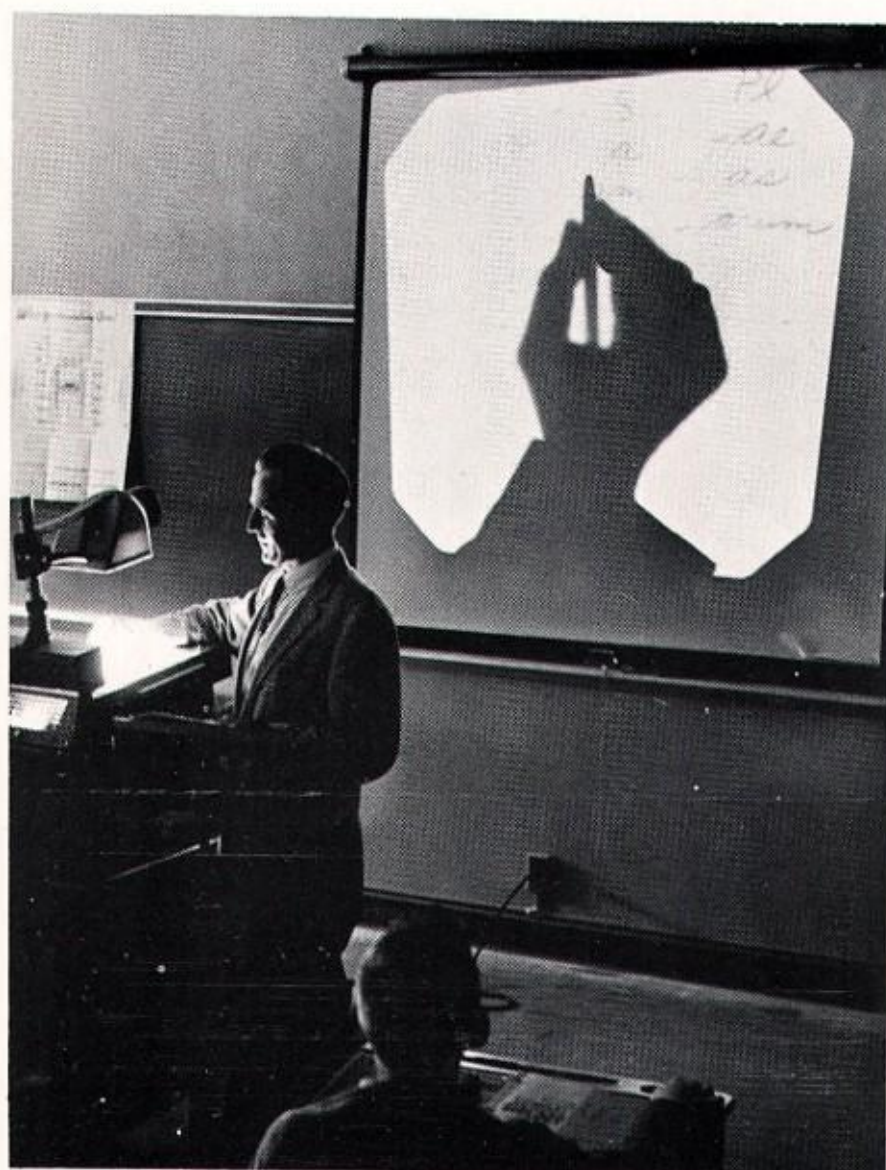

Audio-Visual Aids, Songs, Dolls, Records

"Nunca digo nada cuando no tengo nada decir."

"Tune in tomorrow for the third sequence of Le Petit Prince," say Barb Benzer and Sue Hendrickson.

Mr. Oliver Oesch's third hand illustrates the conjugation of verbs in his Latin class.

"Do all of these have French names!" exclaimed the fourth year French students.

Help Language Students In Comprehension

West Lafayette's language department is unique in offering four different languages--French, Spanish, Latin, and German. A knowledge of languages and their backgrounds helps contribute to an understanding of international relations.

The first three years of French were taught by Mrs. Rolande ErSalcuk, who emphasized pronunciation by using phonograph and tape recordings. For the first time at West Side, fourth year French was taught, Mr. William Watkins being the instructor. He became well known to many students for using doll furniture to help his students build a strong vocabulary. Mrs. Mary Dischinger, a recent addition to the West Side staff, and Mr. William Watkins could be heard through the halls singing Spanish tunes. To Latin scholars, not only was the language explained by Mr. Oliver Oesch, but a concentrated Roman history course was included. Likewise, Mr. John Tully, the German instructor, presented much history and culture in addition to the actual language application.

German magazines give Doug Livingston, Sue Woodruff, and George Schilling insight into the German culture.

Communication is no problem to Mr. Oliver Oesch, Mr. John Tully, Mrs. Rolande ErSalcuk, and Mrs. Terry Dischinger.

Library, Guidance Contribute To Good Marks

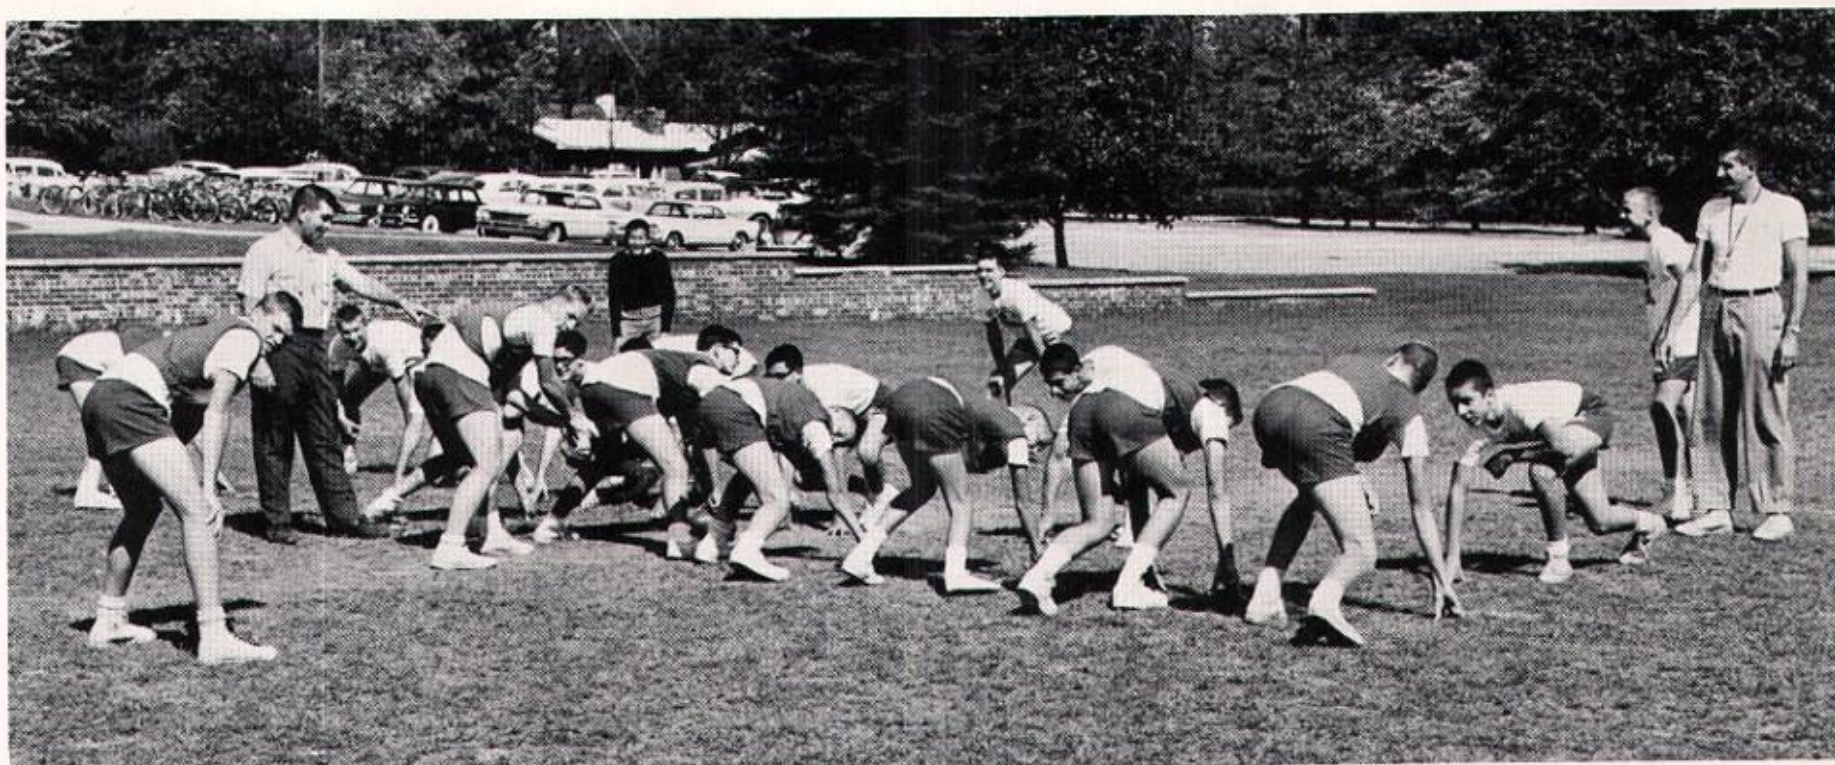

Mr. Howard Evans explains the college credit requirements.

Our guidance counsellor, Mr. Howard Evans, is very important to all students attending West Lafayette. Mr. Evans wrote to one hundred and fifty colleges asking for information last summer. Tests of all kinds are administered by him as well as reporting the results to the students. Seniors and juniors go to Mr. Evans to get applications for taking the College Board tests. These are just a few of his many duties at West Side.

Likewise, Miss Bernice Fites, our librarian, is always willing to help students locate the materials they need. She also maintains a quiet atmosphere for studying. There are many "firsts" in our library this year. The reference books, "Great Books of the Western World," are new. Because of the change in lunch periods, the library is now open all noon hour. For the students' convenience, all the reference books are in one designated area in the library.

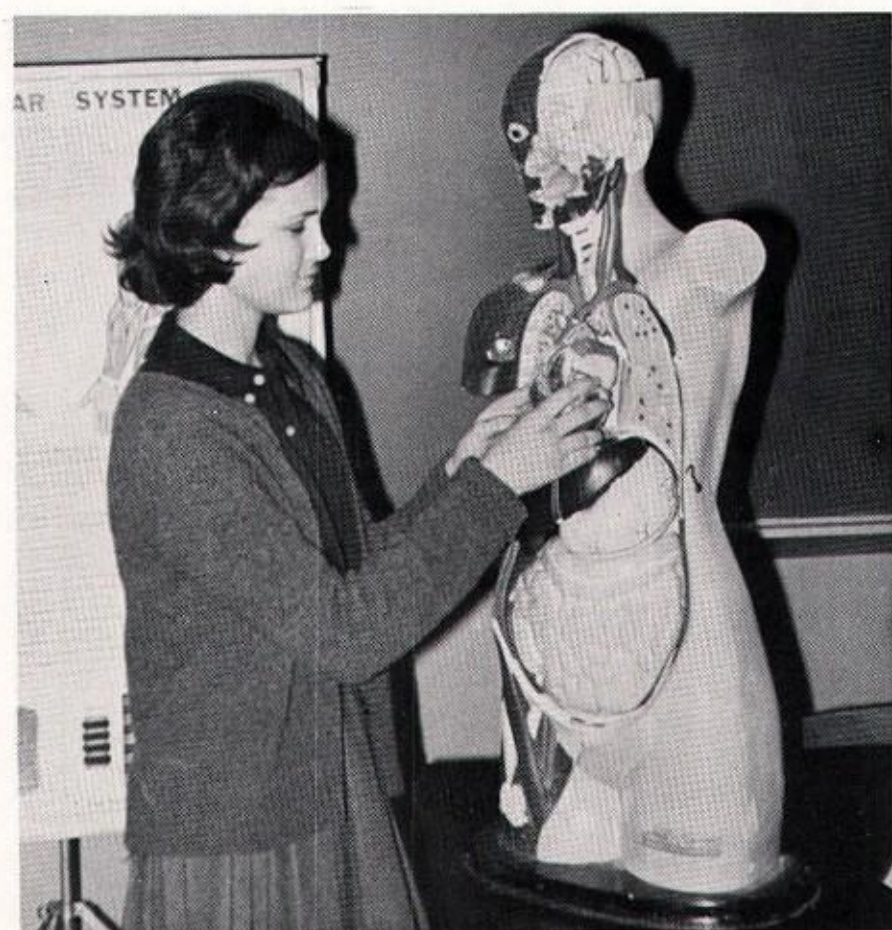

Miss Bernice Fites helps students working at the new reference table.

Mr. William Berberian and Mr. Gordon Straley show fundamentals of football to physical education students.

Training Develops Skills For Driving, Sports

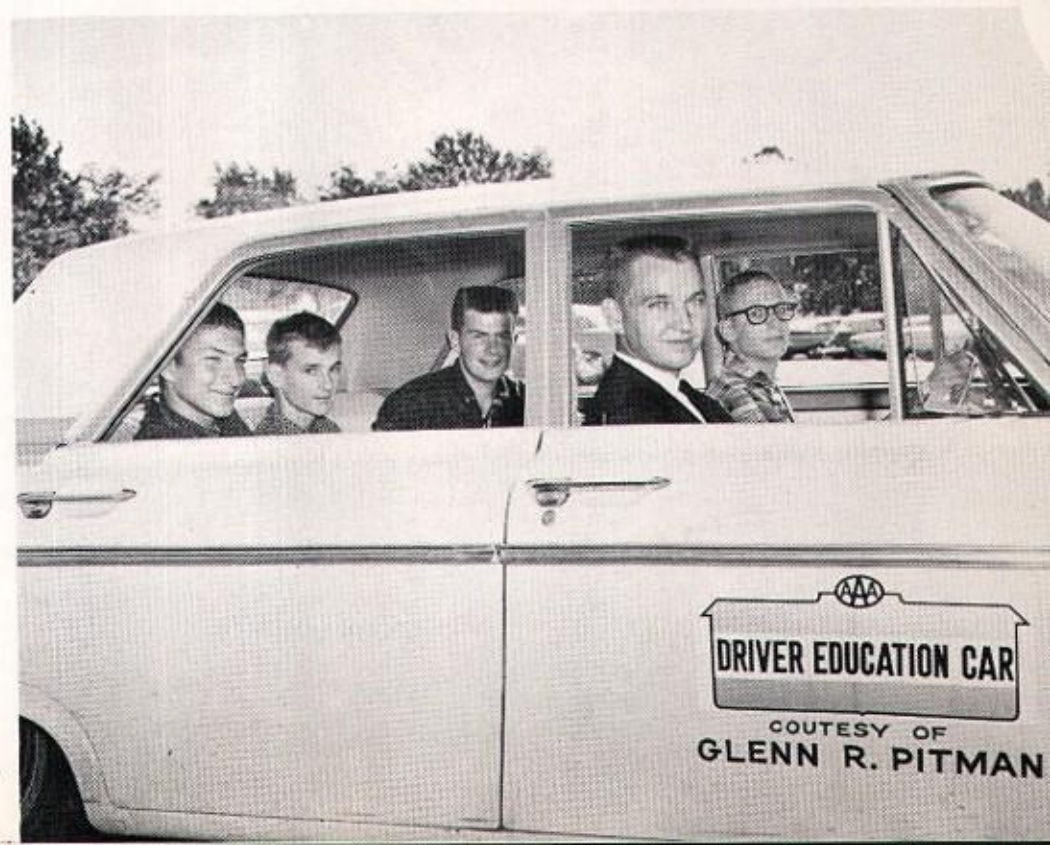

Lou Watkins tenderly puts the heart in the human anatomy used in the health and safety class.

Mr. John Ford smiles as the driver-training car returns safely to the school parking lot.

A chance for experience summarizes the Driver's Training program. During this semester course, students must demonstrate their ability to parallel park, react to an emergency, and drive safely on both country and city road. This year Mr. Gordon Straley, Mr. William Berberian, and Mr. John Ford instructed the classes.

Health and safety and physical education together offered a well-balanced program for freshmen and sophomores. By taking health and safety one day and physical education the next, boys and girls became both mentally and physically fit. Miss Rose Mary Adams introduced the girls to golf, archery, and gymnastics, while Mr. Straley helped the boys to develop basketball and football skills.

The Commercial, Domestic, And Fine Arts

Mrs. Kathleen Lynch adjusts Nancy Mickley's head for a portrait by Joy Hardin.

Mrs. Mary Jo Abbett gives sewing hints to Nancy Elston.

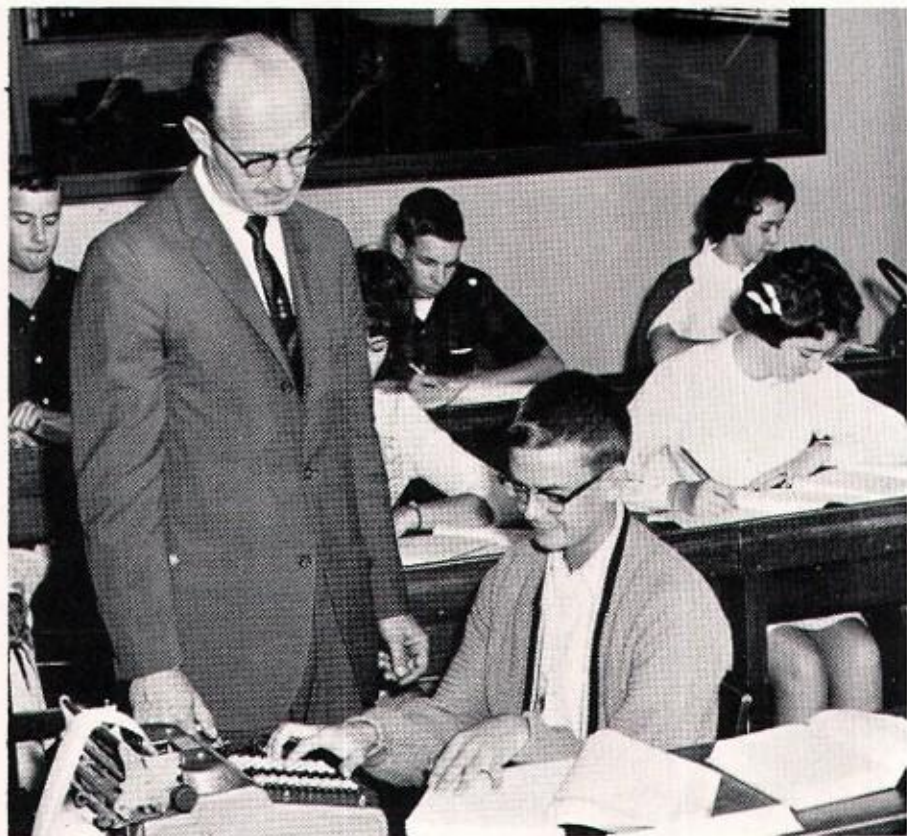

June Burkenpas and Carol Woolery knit to chants of "knit one, purl one."

West Side's new home economics teacher, Mrs. Mary Jo Abbett, introduced knitting to the girls in her first semester sewing class. The girls learned the skill of planning and coordinating their wardrobes to fit their personalities. The scientific side of garment arrangement was discussed as the girls completed their three projects for the year. Besides sewing, knitting, and the care of the body, the home economics students took on the adventures of cooking. Exotic desserts and party dishes headed the list of discoveries. A varied menu with careful and healthful planning, the girls learned, is the key to meal success.

Mrs. Kathleen Lynch's art class tackled such projects as printing and blocking with highlights on overall appearances. The art students found the study of the world's greatest masterpieces interesting as well as educational. Mrs. Lynch taught students to sculpture as well as to paint. Her class was planned according to the students' interests and what they wanted.

Give Knowledge Useful To Future Careers

Mr. Henry Paloncy shows how to use the adding machine.

Typing students concentrate on speed and accuracy.

Business is essential in furnishing a firm foundation for a student's career. Typing, bookkeeping, shop, and mechanical drawing are the courses offered to W.L. students.

Shop and mechanical drawing, for those boys interested in industry, drafting, or engineering, are offered under the supervision of Mr. Fred Breckenridge. Beginning students in mechanical drawing undertake simple projects, but many eventually work on building plans and blueprints. Shop students encountered such projects as working with metals, cars, and building scenery. Sectioning and line density were studied when working with three-view drawings.

Preparation for future business careers is taught under the direction of Mr. Henry Paloncy in bookkeeping class. The students learned the meaning of various terms, all of which helped to familiarize them with the work that they may be doing. Keeping correct ledgers and balancing budgets were also stressed.

Typing also taught by Mr. Paloncy gave the student a quick and efficient means for writing various papers. Extra copies, numerous speed tests, and many letters helped to improve speed and accuracy. Many of these exercises gave the student an indication of his progress.

"The metal, not your thumb," warns Mr. Fred Breckenridge

The Challenge

ORGANIZATIONS

At 3:10 the final bell rings, signifying the end of the school day, but at 4:00 students can still be found on the premises. Our six classes form only one facet of the life at West Side. These are followed by meetings, programs, play practice. . .a continuous list. These are our activities--these are West Side's students organizing, cooperating, enriching their lives as they work together.

Activities at West Side provide challenges at every turn: decorating for a mixer. . .answering an opinion poll for the SCARLETTE. . .collecting props for the senior play. . .rehearsing for the one-acts. . .collecting canned goods for Thanksgiving baskets. . .practicing new card formations for the block. . .meeting deadlines for the SCARLET AND GRAY. . .deciding a theme for the best prom ever. . .forming imaginative and original ideas for the senior Gala Week . . .and meeting. . .

West Lafayette Panorama Club

Panorama, Hi-Y Strive To Benefit Students,

Panorama and Hi-Y, the service clubs at West Side, performed several helpful deeds this year.

Panorama started off the year with a big success--the back-to-school dance, "Suddenly September." Panorama sponsored such programs as the little sisters' picnic, the initiation and fashion show, a New Year's Eve dance, the father-daughter banquet, and the new "Gold Diggers Ball" to mention only a few. Panorama, which is opened to any girl enrolled in the high school, offers opportunities to develop and execute leadership abilities. It is under the wise guidance of Miss Ruth Sinks and her new helpers, Mrs. Mary Jo Abbett and Mrs. Mary Dischinger.

The Hi-Y Club, with the help of Mr. Robert Sum, Mr. John DeYoung, and Mr. Kenneth Bush, presented the annual Hi-Y dance in November. At Christmas time they helped a needy family by giving food and clothing. During the summer the boys made their services available to the crippled children's swim program. Because the club had a large increase in membership, two initiations were held to accommodate the influx. In order to be accepted into Hi-Y, the prospective members are required to earn a total of thirteen service points. Points could be earned by selling cokes, passing programs, and posting menus.

Scarlette's 20th Year Highlights Larger Size,

Advisor, Mrs. Carolyn McClintock and Editor, John King discuss the layout for the next issue.

Business manager, Rob Gerritson, looks on as Advertising manager, Bob Jones, places ads.

The SCARLETTE finished its twentieth year this year. The twentieth year was the first as a full-sized, five-column paper. Our success was due to long hours spent after school in the press room by Ruth Hoxsie, Managing editor; Colleen McCormick, News editor; Marcia Walenstein, Feature editor; and Jim Kelso, Sports editor.

Financial problems have plagued the SCARLETTE in past years, but this year the paper stayed well in the black. Bob Jones, Advertising manager, and Rob Gerritsen, Business manager, made sure the money went to the right place. Of course, the whole preparation depended on the large and hard-working staff, but I can't list them all.

Special thanks go to Mrs. Carolyn McClintock, who gave the SCARLETTE the benefit of her interest and experience. We all hope that the SCARLETTE fulfilled the major goals of a high school paper--to entertain and to inform.

Of Making The 1963 Annual The Best Ever

ADVERTISING AND ACTIVITIES STAFFS--(Seated) Diana Breitwieser, Kathy Dammon, Duane Gillam, Karyn Williams, editors. (Standing) Bob Bowman, Paul Schmiedicke, Nancy Clevett, Sarah Weiler, editor; Ann Matthew, Margene May, Mary Jane Wilson.

Planning for the 1963 SCARLET AND GRAY began when we attended the Indiana University Journalism Institute. Layout organization and styles of copywriting were learned. Two weeks of valuable instruction were behind us and more work to come. In our effort to explain how W.L. students are "Accepting the Challenge," the goals of our staff were to produce an accurate picture of our school, a permanent record, and a memory book.

We can never say thanks enough to all of the people on our staff who have helped to make the 1963 SCARLET AND GRAY the best ever. We give special thanks to Marcia Walerstein and Carole France, Associate editors; Susie Weiler, Marilyn Bottomley, and Mitzie Shunk, Literary editors; Kathy Dammon and Duane Gillam, Advertising editors; Steve Waling, Business manager; and Larry Christensen and Dave Adams, photographers.

We know that our staff joins us in thanking Mr. Henry Paloncy, our business advisor, for his advice and guidance. Of course, we can not forget our main advisor, Miss Ruth Sinks, whom we have learned to respect and who has gone out of her way to help us. We also wish to thank the student body and the faculty for being so cooperative.

Honor Society Initiates Outstanding Students

Rob Paarlberg, senior class salutatorian, and Kay Kinnison, valedictorian, admire the N.H.S. plaque.

Every year, outstanding juniors and seniors are awarded membership in the National Honor Society at West Side.

Requirements include achievement in each of four areas: scholarship, leadership, service, and character. In order to be considered for membership, the student must have an accumulative 5.0 average or better. Faculty members select the members on the basis of each candidate's records. All qualifications are carefully considered for the number of members cannot exceed fifteen per cent of the class. In the past, the usual procedure has been to elect seven and one-half per cent of a class in its junior year, and to elect the other seven and one-half per cent in its senior year.

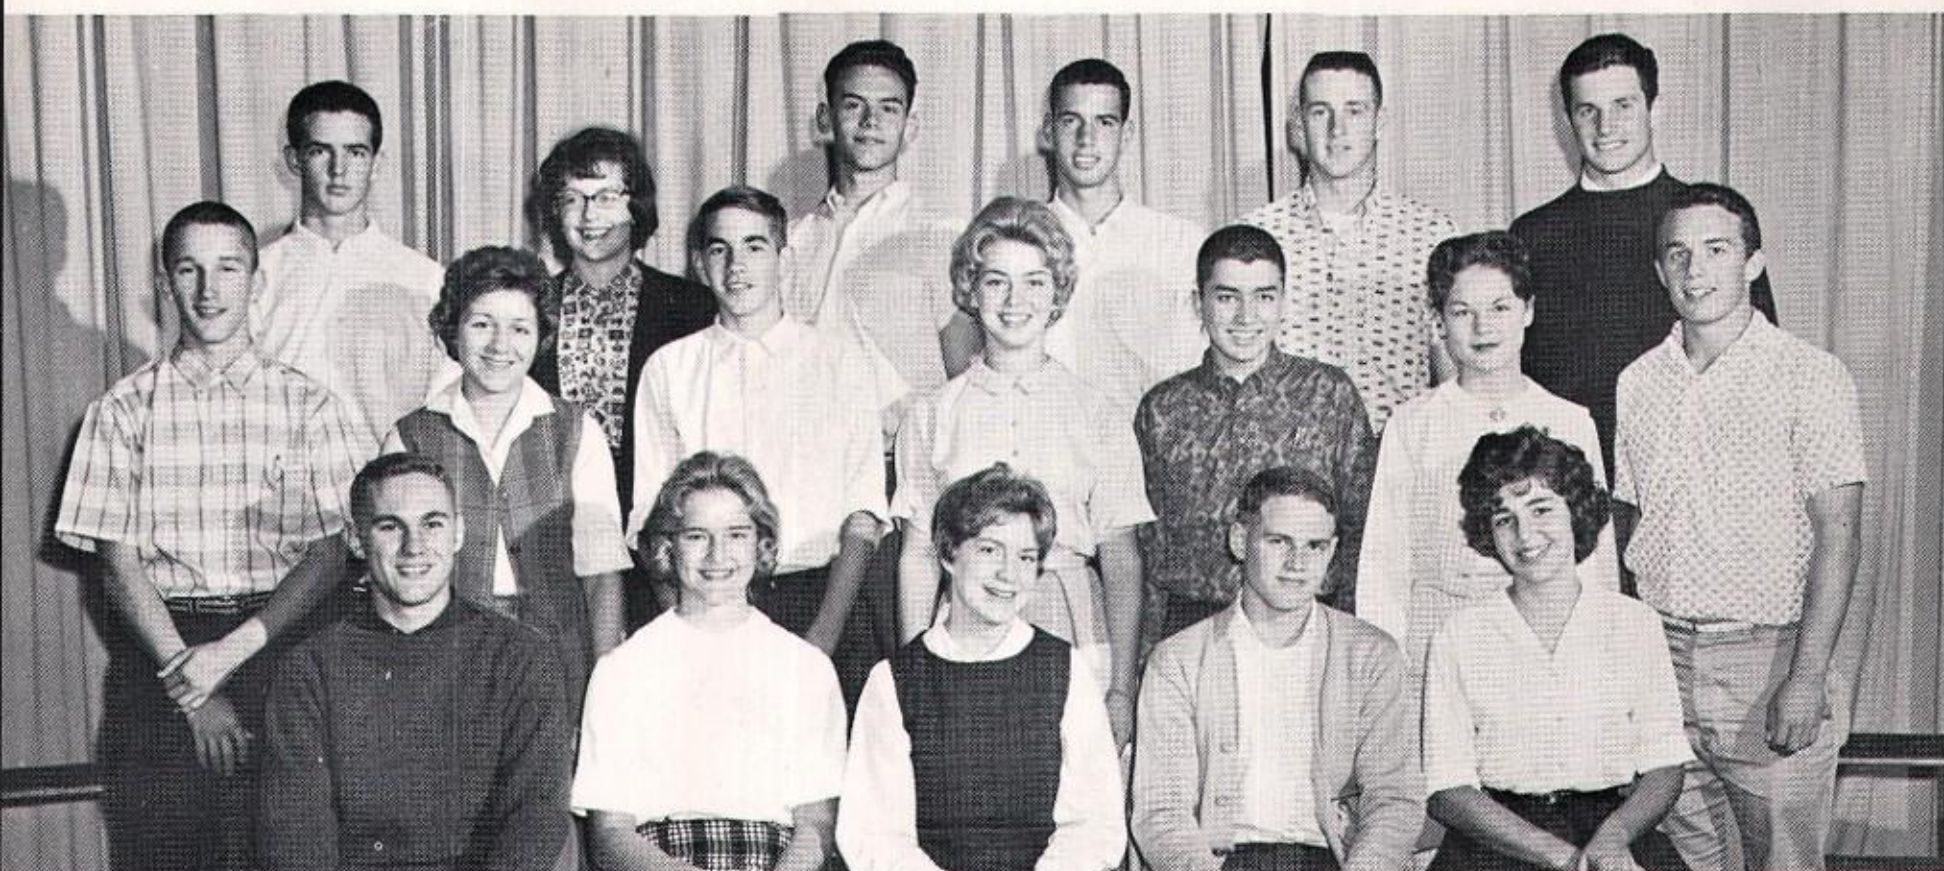

A constitution for the chapter at West Lafayette was drawn up in 1936. Since that time, West Lafayette High School has been a part of the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

The sponsor is Miss Ruth Sinks.

Student Council Acts As Voice Of Students

The West Side Student Council dedicates itself to serve the interests of the school. Through concentrated work they strive to build better cooperation and understanding among the students and between students and the faculty. Experience in responsibility, leadership, and self-control are gained by the members throughout the year. Under the faculty sponsors, Mr. Charles Banning and Mr. Joseph Krause, the Student Council promotes various activities and projects. Participation in the United Fund Drive, the editing of the Red Devil's Handbook, a guide to new students, and a study of the school's curriculum are only a few. Meetings are slated for every second and fourth Tuesday of the month, but many times special meetings are called. This year the time was changed to early in the morning instead of during the lunch period because of the divided lunch hour. Presidents of all the school's clubs, the co-editors of both the SCARLETTE and the SCARLET AND GRAY, presidents of each class, the varsity cheerleading captain, and the Student Council representative from each class are members of this governmental group.

Student Council officers, Rob Paarlberg, John King, and Kay Kinnison, check the agenda for the next meeting.

in scenes from "The Matchmaker".

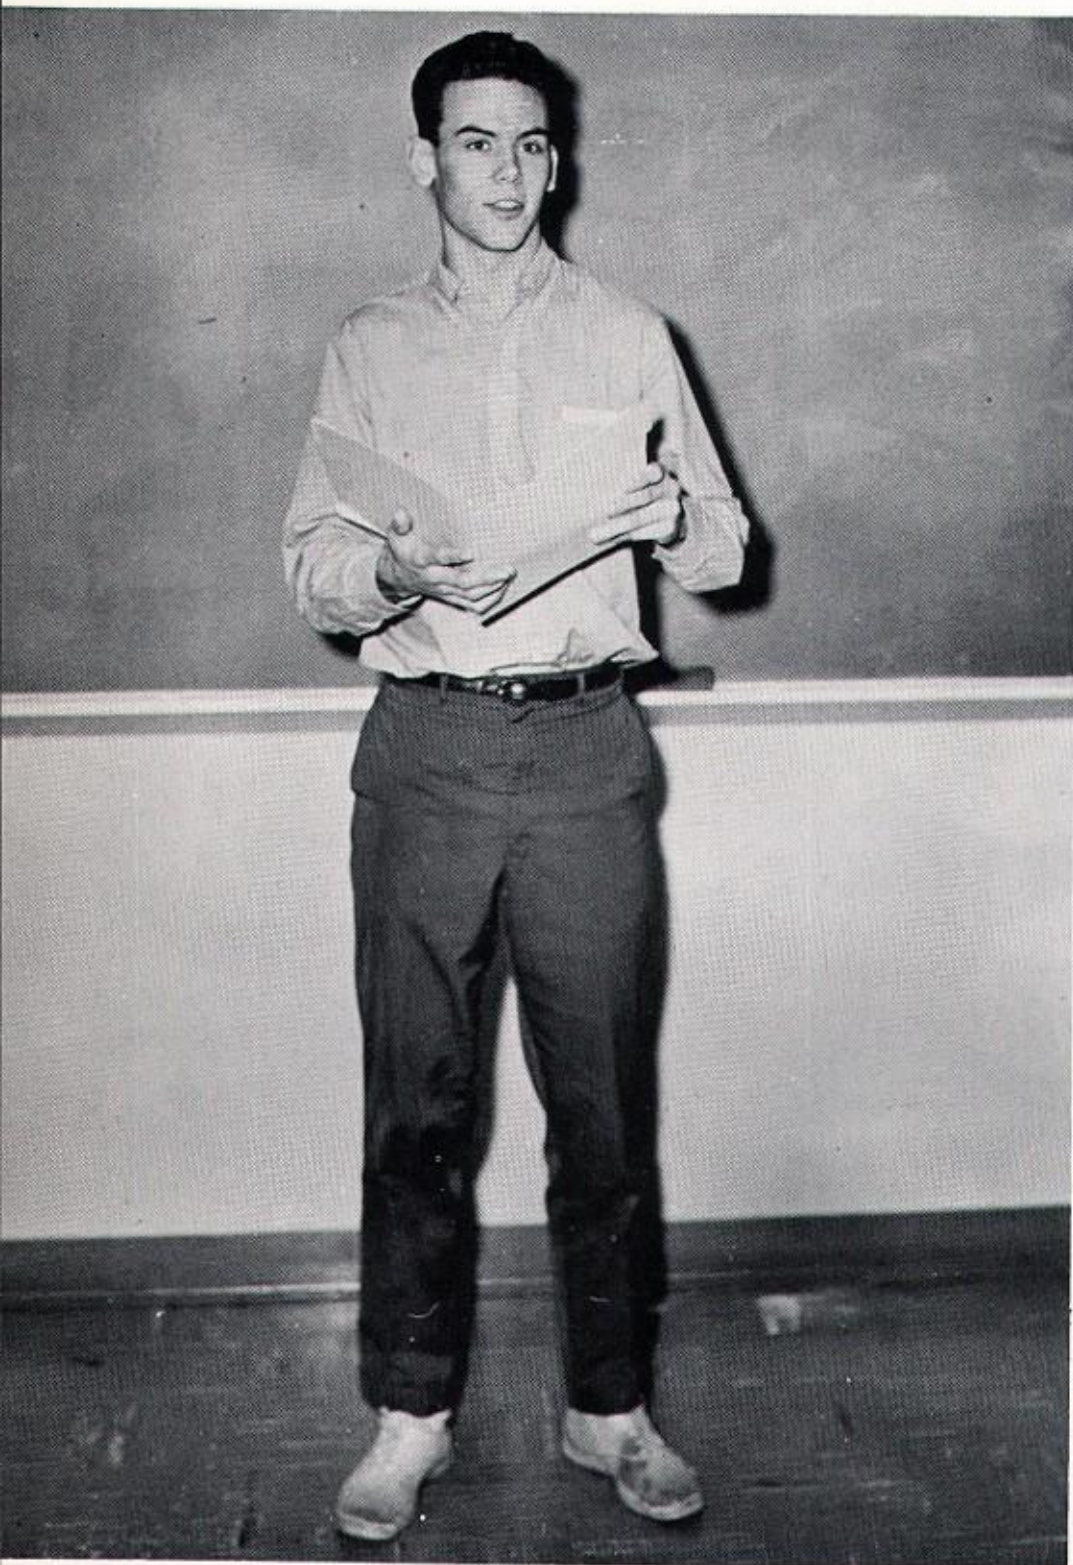

Speech Arts Club had another busy and active year. The program began this year with a sign-up party, something new for Speech Arts. In the fall, the club helped the Senior Class in putting on their play, "The Matchmaker". In the winter months, Speech Arts sponsored a mixer and the children's play, "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves". One-act plays were put on for a variety of relaxation. The spring project for the club was the Junior Class play, "Berkeley Square".

This active club is concerned with all phases of speech, not dramatics alone. Members had the opportunity to take part in some speech meets as part of the forensics group. At the Speech Arts banquet and other meetings, the members were introduced to several excellent speakers.

The club was managed throughout the year by its officers: Russ Mills, president; Biz Harlan, vice-president; Kay Kinnison, secretary; Dan Cable, treasurer; Marianne Miller, junior representative; Susan Straley, sophomore representative; and Bill Mills, freshman representative. They were assisted by an Advisory Board. The club's sponsor, Mrs. Mary Helen Kahn, was a great asset to the club.

W.L. Students Discover Oratorical Abilities,

Giving it all he has, Russ Mills practices for a forensic meet.

A number of West Side students have been interested and active enough in dramatic arts to merit membership in the West Lafayette Chapter of the National Thespian Society. A total of ten points is required to be accepted into this group. Points for membership are earned by working on various crews and by acting in plays. This year the honorary club, headed by Sayre Karling, president, viewed a number of plays produced locally. They then met to discuss them.

The forensic team, now in its third year at West Side, offers students a chance to compete with other high school students in extemporaneous speaking, humorous and dramatic interpretation, original oratory, and poetry reading. Captain of the forensic team is Speech Arts vice-president, Mary Harlan. Sponsor of both these organizations is Mrs. Mary Helen Kahn.

Attending tournaments and clinics all over the state as well as the Purdue Debaters Conference was the agenda for the West Side debate team. The topic of the debate this year concerned reciprocal trade among non-aligned nations. Under the direction of Mr. Joseph Krause, the debate team won many of their tournaments.

In today's world of complex mechanics, which is very evident on the high school level, a Technical Equipment Crew is very important. Among their major duties, TEC is responsible for lighting for plays, operating the scoreboards, for football, basketball, and wrestling, playing records for mixers, and setting up public address systems for convocations.

TEC is sponsored by Mr. Fred Breckenridge. The purpose of TEC is to serve the school and to make the boys better acquainted with electrical equipment. Membership in TEC is limited. Four or five new members are selected from the freshman boys, and these boys who become active members of the organization become very skilled in the use of mechanical equipment. TEC provides technical services for which students not trained cannot perform.

Providing an interesting variety in its meetings, the Science Club tried to increase its membership.

Included in the plan for this year were talks by professors from Purdue University, speaking on a number of topics. One talk was on food supplies for planetary use and methods for eliminating the world food shortage.

Another talk explained the science fairs, and everyone, especially freshmen, were encouraged to enter an exhibit. Time was taken at meetings to give information and advice to those anticipating their first entry.

The Literature Club also tried to increase its membership by reading attention-getting books. Books by famous authors of both ancient times and modern day were studied for their literary value and the underlying messages to the reader. One of the first books read was "Oedipus Rex," a Greek tragedy by Sophocles. Movies were also shown to help analyze the book. These books led to many a stimulating discussion as the members learned of the heritage of literature.

Pep Club began the year with a potluck picnic early in September. There the plans for the year were discussed and the officers were introduced.

Dressed in the now traditional "monkey suits", the block section enthusiastically supported our team at all home basketball games with loud cheering and colorful card formations. A mixer, fan buses, homecomings, and pep sessions, were other activities which were organized and executed by the club. Guiding the club through its busy year was Miss Rose Mary Adams, the club's sponsor.

Vital to the team spirit were the varsity cheerleaders: Captain Barb Buche, Lynn Taylor, Alice Schuhmann, Mitzie Shunk, and Nancy Harshbarger, alternate. Cheering the B-team on to victory were Captain Linda Waling, Debbie Hunt, Sarah Eddy, Marilyn Speaker, and Katie Curfman, alternate.

West Lafayette Dance Band

Instrumental Organizations Add Color, Zest

West Lafayette's instrumental department has a three-fold function each year. Extensive try-outs were held in order to select the most talented individuals. The largest band in the history of the school played rousing marches at all of the home games. All the members helped to keep spirits high, urging the Devils to victory. Besides playing for the games, this unit traveled to Ball State Teachers College to compete with other bands of the state. Director, Mr. Salvatore Barone, deserves credit for his direction of this instrumental group this year.

Under the talented supervision of Mr. Marshall Howenstein, the orchestra, along with the band, performed at the Cabaret Concert. The orchestra also had the task of playing at the Winter Concert, as well as at the Commencement exercises. The orchestra also takes part in the Midwest Orchestra Concert every year.

Providing the music "to twist by" at several of the after-game mixers and out-of-town dances is the main performance of the W.L. Dance Band. The Dance Band leader this year was Alan Sanford, a senior. Ivy Courtenay, also a senior, was the Dance Band vocalist at all of the Dance Band performances. Mr. Howenstein supervised many hours of practice.

MAJORETTES--Katy Anderson, Lynda Morehouse, Becky Beck, Kay Kinnison, captain; Mary Dietrich, Judy Marlin, Donna Holst.

Singing and harmonizing, the West Side vocal groups provide the "sound of music." Students who have interest in music are invited to offer their talents in one of the many opportunities open to them in this field. Membership in the concert choir enables students to increase their knowledge and appreciation of music. This choir sets an appropriate mood at various convocations throughout the year and at the special Christmas and Spring concerts. Annually this group stands as part of the cast of Deviltries.

Both the Boys' Glee Club and the Girls' Glee Club accompany the Concert Choir in many of its festivities. Competition in try-outs bring out the top talents to make up the various vocal groups.

Performing at groups around town and at various concerts are the Girls' Sextet and the Double Mixed Quartet. All under the direction of Mr. David Burmeister, these musically inclined individuals compete in contests in the spring.

The Challenge

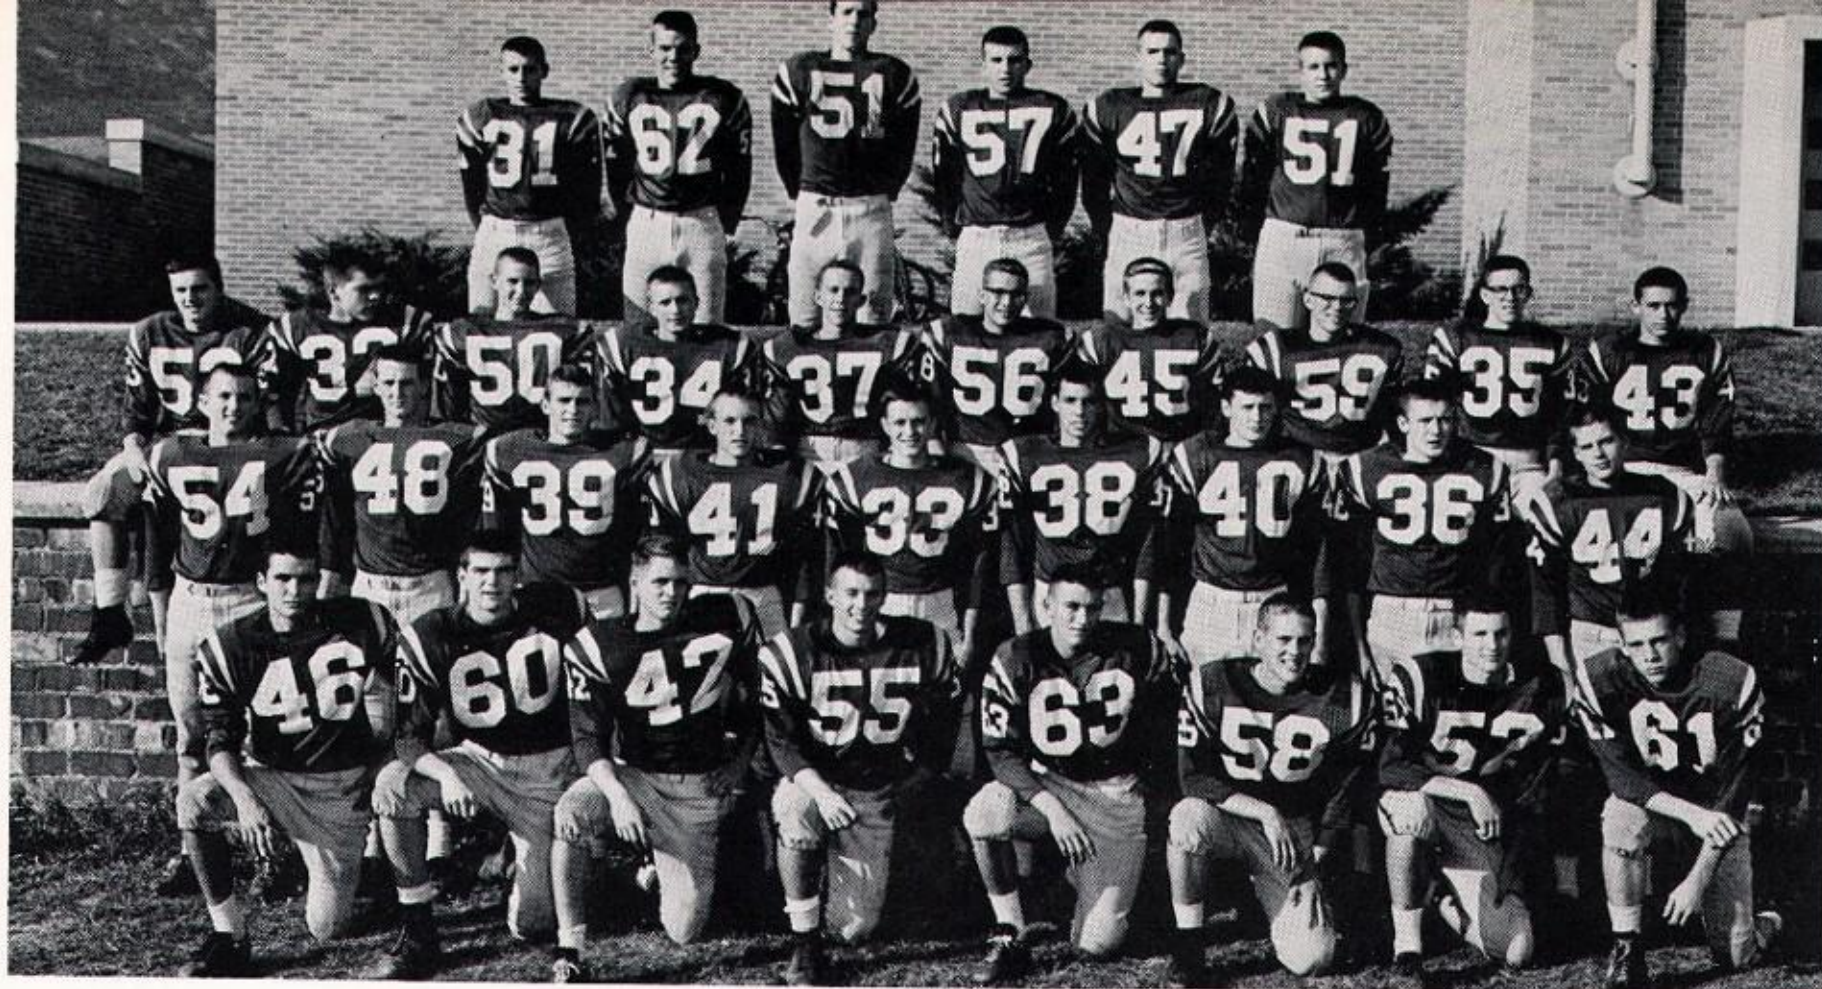

ATHLETICS

The story of sports at West Side is a two-sided activity--those participating and those cheering the team on through both victory and defeat. For no matter how fine a squad may be, teams need screaming, applauding fans and followers to arouse their spirit. A team without support is like a gentle breeze, capable of becoming a hurricane, but lacking something to get started. However, with the addition of boosting spectators, this wind becomes a conquering tornado.

Since a team is restricted in its size, it is a great honor to make any athletic team. Athletics are certainly beneficial, for they teach responsibilities, coordination with others, and more than anything else--sportsmanship. To some degree, athletics involve every student in some way, and this certainly demonstrates well how West Side students are accepting...

Devils Show Determination And Versatility

The relatively small, but rugged Devil grid-ders carved an excellent 6-3 record. Co-captain Bob Lowell led the offense with 600 yards for an average of 4.6 per carry. Nevertheless, the defense provided the necessary support to enable the Satans to win their last five games in a row. Steady performances were turned in by Rob Paarlberg, Dave Kelso, and Mark Moriarty.

In the first two tilts the Devils lost to Logansport and Lebanon. The Satans provided a stern offense to threaten the Logansport goal several times but couldn't break the Berries' mastery over the Devils, losing 18 to 6. The Scarlet and Gray contained the Tigers in the first half, but Lebanon displayed fine break-away backs in the second half to down the Satans 20 to 0.

A determined defense and a 13 to 0 half-time lead paved the way to WL's first victory, defeating Crawfordsville 13 to 6. Lowell rambled 58 yards for the first tally, Steele converted. WL then contained the Athenians four times inside the ten-yard line. Johnson passed to Waling to provide the winning margin.

The third loss of the season came at the hands of cross-town rival Central Catholic. The Knights had too much of an aerial attack for the Satans to cope with losing 14 to 0.

Again the defense spelled victory for the injured Devils who had four starters watching from the bench. The Satans gobbled up three Frankfort fumbles and two Hot Dog passes to set up their touchdowns, defeating the Hot dogs 21 to 19.

Evening their record at 3-3 the Devils turned a 13-6 halftime deficit into a 19 to 13 victory over Delphi. Johnson played an outstanding game, passing to Hilst for the first TD and scoring the final touchdown himself.

The fourth and fifth wins came at the expense of Elwood and Rensselaer. The Devils dumped Elwood 6 to 0. Romping over Rensselaer 61 to 6, the Devils established a school scoring record.

Playing their last and by far best game of the season, the highly spirited Devils downed Sacred Heart 12 to 6. Defense proved to be the deciding factor. Johnson dashed around left end and Lowell charged 7 yards for the two TDs.

The B-team fights hard to score a PAT.

Gaining valuable experience, the B-team will provide the varsity with the needed depth to survive a long rugged schedule. They won five of their tilts while tying one. The fine record was due to the fact that Coach Ken Bush returned to the helm after a leave of absence. The B-team showed overwhelming strength on defense, allowing only 13 points to be scored against them.

Starting the season with an always tough Lebanon team, the B's played the Tigers to a 0 to 0 stalemate. The following week the Satans dumped Clinton Central 19 to 0. Cross-town rival Central Catholic invaded Leslie Field but were dismayed when the Devils' superior strength trounced the Knights 25 to 0. The Devils again displayed rugged defense, blanking Delphi 14 to 0. A fumble recovery in the end zone enabled the young Devils to sneak past Crawfordsville 9 to 7. Playing the last game of the season on the road, the Devils nipped Southwestern 12 to 6.

Queen Mitzie Shunk

Every storybook has its own Queen. West Lafayette High School has its own Queen too--its Homecoming Queen.

On October 19, 1962, six shining convertibles circled the football field. In one of those "royal coaches" was the Homecoming Queen of West Lafayette High School. As the "royal coaches" slowly came to a halt before the coronation stand, the crowd was hushed with the silence of anticipation. All was still as seniors, Susie Foster, escorted by Bob Bowman; Sarah Weiler, escorted by Gary Dienhart; Mitzie Shunk, escorted by Paul Schmiedicke; juniors, Linda Million, escorted by Bruce Williamson; Barb Buche, escorted by John Ryden; and sophomore Katie Curfman, escorted by Tom Butz, mounted the royal stand. Two freshman pages, Maggie McTague and Judy Edstrom, lifted the shimmering crown from its velvet cushion and handed it to Dan Cable, drum major. Dan then placed the crown on the Queen's head. The six shining convertibles then circled off the field, but only one carried West Lafayette High School's Royal Majesty--Queen Mitzie Shunk.

Heated tension rose on the winter night of February 8, as Mary Jane Wilson took her place to announce the 1963 basketball queen. The two pages, Millie Meade and Kay Loop, walked to the scene of the crowning with their roses and presents, while the crowd fell silent.

The first queen candidate to be escorted to the stand was senior, Diana Breitwieser, escorted by John Sims. Second was newcomer, Judy Payne, escorted by Mark Moriarty. Susie Weiler was next, escorted by Tom Pearson. Juniors Melissa Finnegan and Nancy Harshbarger followed, escorted by David Young and Bob Axton respectively. Alice Schuhmann, sophomore, was the last to enter the court with her escort, George Revington.

Amid the excitement and the trumpet fanfare, the crowning took place. The president of Hi-Y, Rob Paarlberg, carried out the procedure of crowning the queen. Silence hung as the 1963 basketball queen was announced. The bleachers then echoed with the sound of cheers as the five candidates filed out of the gym leaving the queen, Miss Susie Weiler, to ascend the throne.

Varsity Basketball Team Emphasizes Defense

John Ryden fights for a valuable rebound.

Turning a rebuilding season into a successful campaign, the Devils slated a respectable 10 and 8 record for the year. Throughout the year the Satans were led by the consistent scoring of junior John Ryden and the rebounding power of Bud France. Ryden collected 303 points in 18 games for an impressive 16.8 average per game.

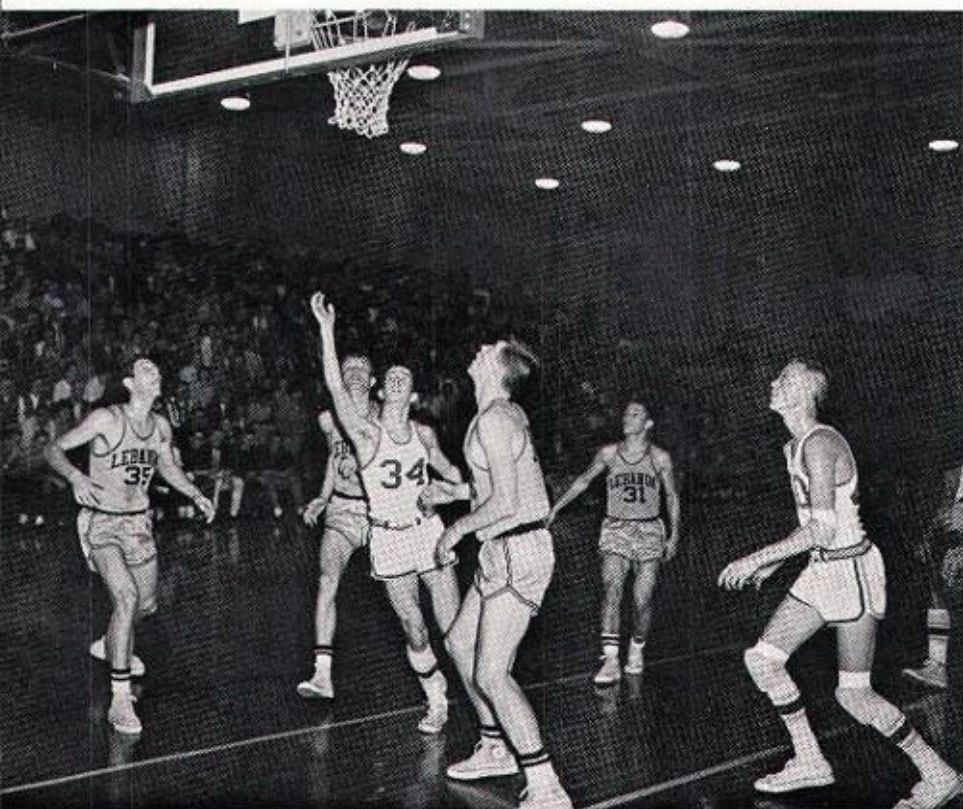

Employing an excellent zone defense and fine ball control, the Devils emerged victors in their first outing of the season, defeating Covington 67-58. The Satans then dropped their next three encounters to Zionsville, Carroll, and Frankfort. Carroll, WL's first conference foe, beat the Devils 52-51 in an overtime tilt.

Upsetting highly favored Lebanon, the Devils won their first home game, 50-38. The Satans were led by Larry Hilst with 14 points. The following night the Rensselaar Bombers were the third victim of the fast improving Devils. Ryden scored 27 points to pace the victory. Falling to a 3-4 record the Devils were trounced by Crawfordsville 64 to 38. Trailing by 17 points with just a few minutes left, the Devils fought back to within one point to almost upset Jeff, losing 52-51. Ryden led the attack with 18 points.

After defeating Monticello 62-56, the Devils won their first conference game, downing Winamac 61 to 47. Bruce Williamson and Ryden led all scorers with 13 points apiece. Trailing by only one point at half, the Satans couldn't hold on and fell to Clinton Prairie 66-57. Errors and poor field shooting spelled the second defeat by Central Catholic in two years. The Knights out-scraped the Devils for a 64-50 victory. Waling was the only scoring threat with 18 points.

The Devils then won three straight Hoosier Conference games. France's 29 against Southwestern was too much for the Wildcats to handle as they fell to the Devils 60-48. Starting slowly, the Devils put on a second half spurt to shut the lid on high scoring Rossville with an impressive 51-35 win. The third conference win came at the hands of Attica, 56-43. The Devils then dropped all hopes of the conference crown with a setback by Western 63 to 57. The netters later rallied to beat Clinton Central in an overtime contest, 55-51. In their last game the Devils defeated Delphi 46-29 assuring second place in the Hoosier Conference.

Wrestling Team Encounters Rugged Competition

Under the coaching of Mr. Richard Erickson, a new mentor in his second year at West Side, and with the help of Mr. Jim O'Brien, assistant coach, the West Lafayette Red Devils posted a respectable season record against some of the state's best teams. The Satans faced such teams as Frankfort, Crispus Attucks, Culver Military, Greencastle, Kokomo, Jeff, Peru, Crawfordsville, Logansport, Pendleton, and Coal Creek Central.

The team was led by senior co-captains Mark Moriarty and Dean Pickett. They were aided by Bob Lowell, Jim Bradshaw, and Tom Fabian. These boys provided the speed and balance necessary to pin or decision their foes.

Looking ahead, the Devils have several promising young grapplers in the underclasses. Ken Mayo, Bob Tudor, Bill Davenport, and Dave Robbins gave support to the team throughout the year. All these boys will be returning next year, and the experience gained by them will be valuable next year as they will meet many of the same opponents.

The student body has turned out very strongly to urge the Devils on to victory, and this is an excellent tribute to the boys. Coach

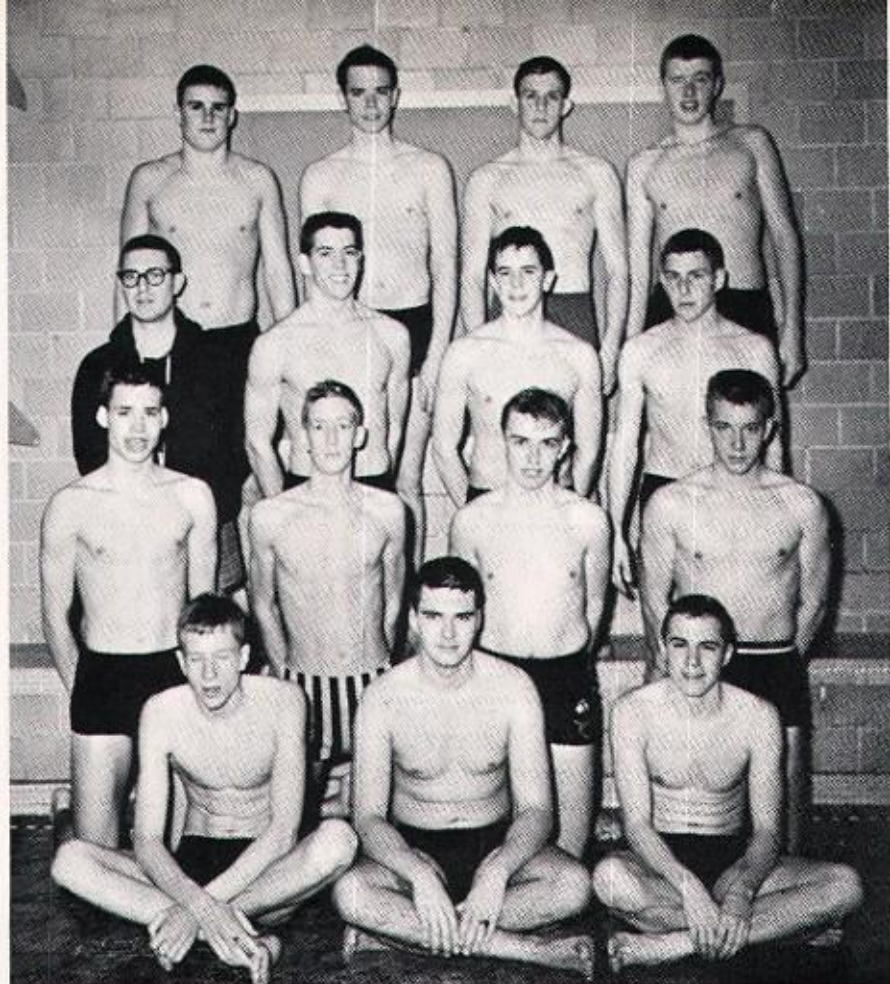

Co-captain Mark Moriarty fights hard to pin a tough wrestling opponent.

Swimming, Baseball Teams Combat Veterans

The West Lafayette baseball team started limbering up in the early spring. The team played their home baseball games at Bob Friend field. With the return of many underclassmen the team was adapted to all positions. The goal for the team was the Hoosier Conference crown.

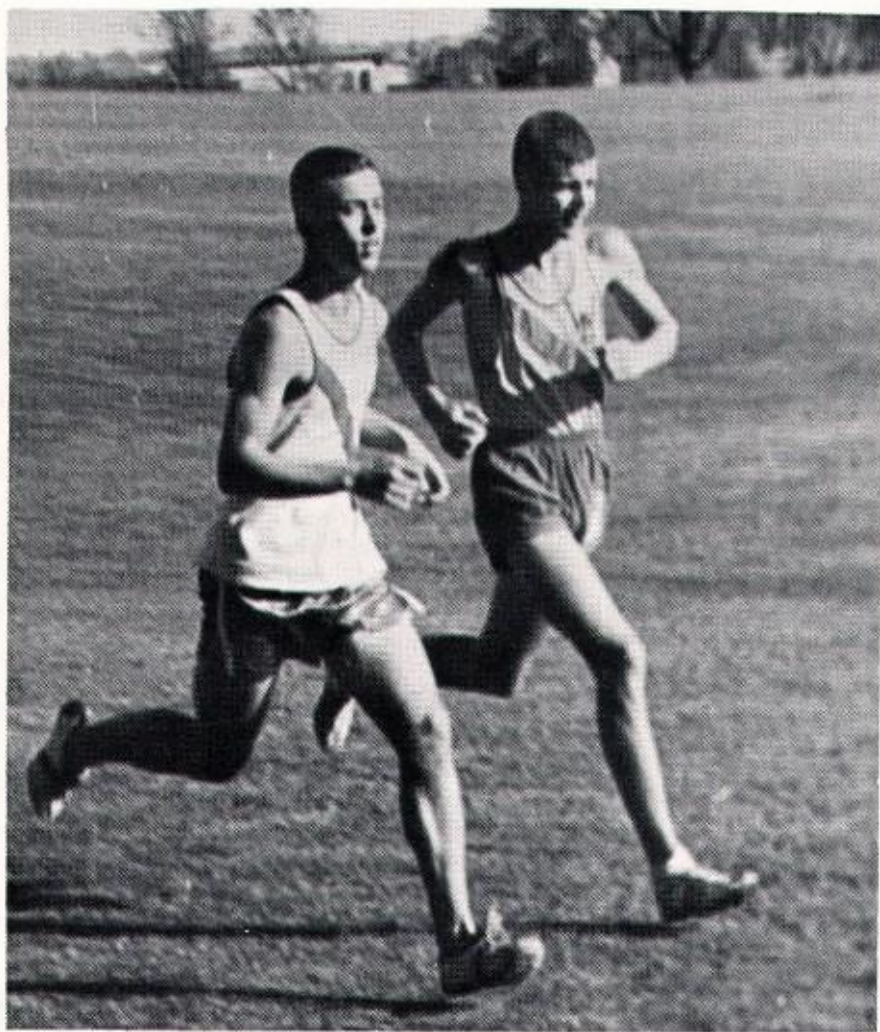

The diamond men had only two returning seniors, Harold Moses and Larry Parker, but the underclassmen were Larry Hilst, John Sorensen, Nick Kildahl, John Robertson, and Bob Troyer. The pitching was drilled very hard throughout the season.

For the first time in the history of sports at West Side, the school had a swimming team. A good beginning was made against some of the best teams in the state--Lafayette Jefferson, Culver Military, and Carrol. Using the Y.M.C.A. and Purdue pools, the team practiced twice a week under the direction of Mr. Weldon Witters. With Steve Isaacson, the only senior, the team members were juniors Craig Shaffer, George Bender, Ed Morgan, Milt Stewart, Rob Gerritsen, and underclassmen Pete Lazarus and Josh Andrew.

Led by Ralph Stadelman during the early stages of the season and then by Mark Gibbens in the latter part of the campaign, the harriers won 12 meets while losing only one. Touring the two mile course, Gibbens and Stadelman established new records throughout the season. Gibbens also placed second in the field of state finalists which enabled the Devils to place sixth in the state.

They successfully defended their Hoosier Conference crown and again won the tough Central Indiana Conference. The Satans also topped a large field at the Southport Invitational to finish the best season in the history of the sport.

Under the direction of Mr. Jim Tatlock, the Devils had one of the top track teams in this area. The team spent most of the season defending the perfect record established by last year's team, the Hoosier Conference crown, the sectional title, and the Delphi Relays. Other meets included the Central Indiana Conference and the Jeff-Central Catholic meet.

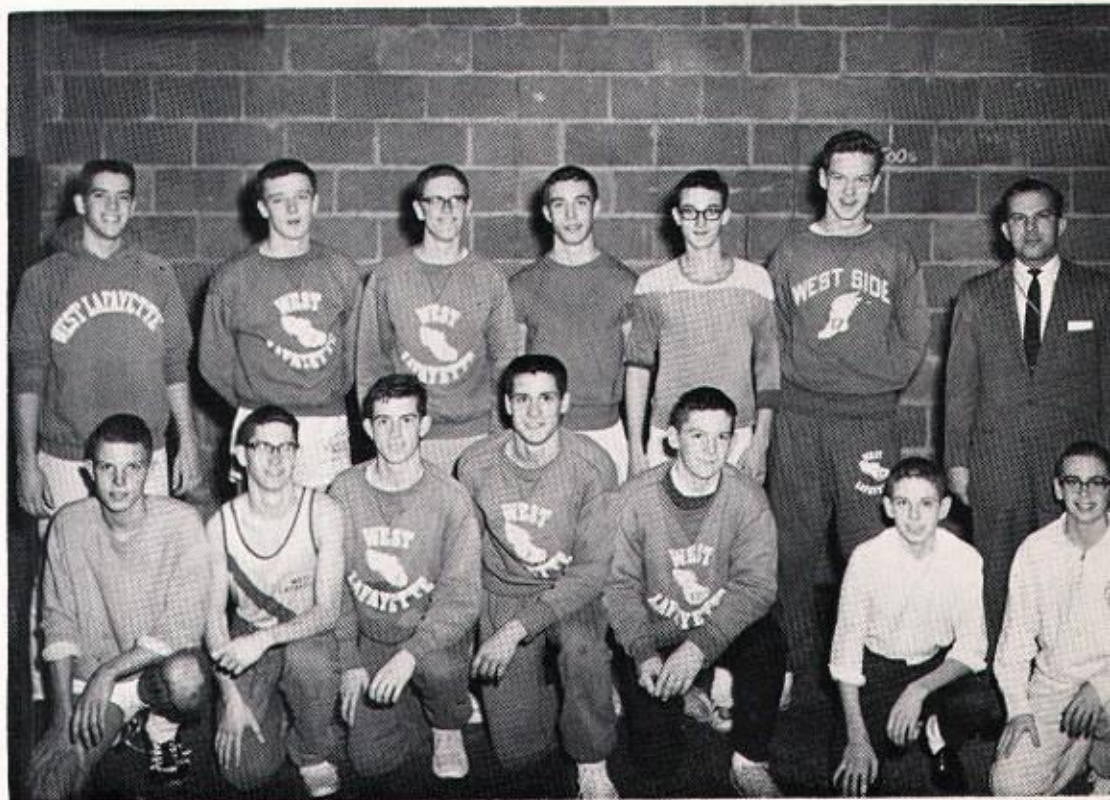

Larry Lamberson, Ralph Stadelman, Lee Anderson, Bob Axton, Morrie Erickson, Milt Stewart, John Ryden, Craig Shaffer, and Jim Kelso were the core of the squad.

The tennis team, like the golfers, were faced with the problem of inexperience. However, the netters participated in a fall tennis program which enabled them to gain some valuable experience. Jim McCormick, a letterman, Jon and Phil Stielstra, Phil Boyle, Steve Warren, Dave Fraley, and Bill Elliot formed the nucleus of the squad. The netmen found the competition a bit tough when they ran up against such notable teams as Crawfordsville, Tipton, Lafayette Jeff, Logansport, and Danville of Illinois. Coach Richard Erickson directed the team for the second year.

Led by four-year letterman Dave Kelso and sophomore record-setter Brent Hartman, the golf team carved another fine season. The Devils were faced with some of the State's most prominent teams. Dick Bossung once again directed the linksmen through their rugged schedule. Included in the schedule were Lafayette Jefferson, always tough LaPorte, Lebanon, Central Catholic, and several Indianapolis Invitationals. Bob Steele and Alan Sanford, both inexperienced, provided the needed support for their forerunners.

Students Keep Physically Fit In Intramurals

Steve Eisinger uncorks a long jump shot.

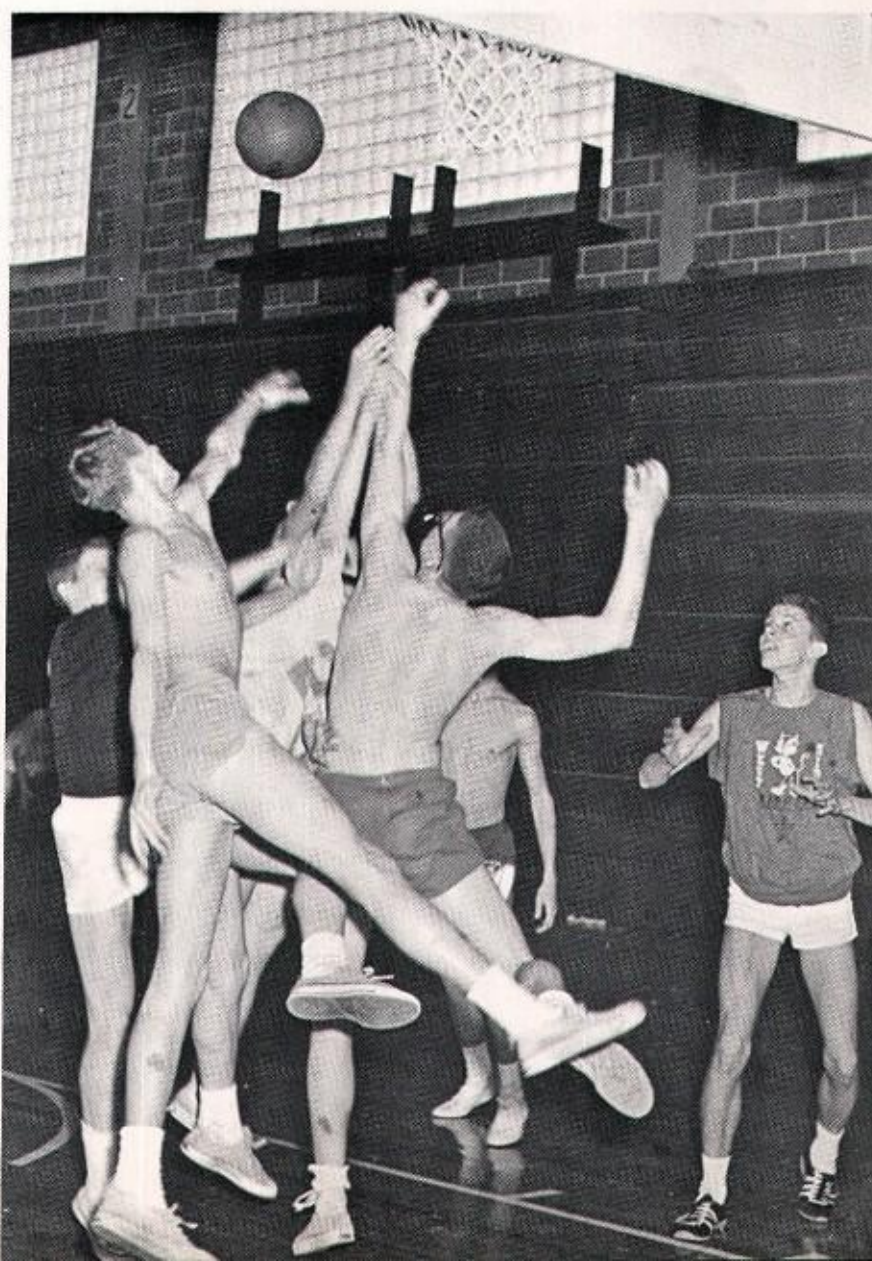

Freshmen and sophomores play table tennis as a part of their well-rounded intramural program.

This year Mr. John Ford and Miss Rose Mary Adams supervised an expanded intramural program. Competitive sports were available for the entire student body in a wide variety of interests.

In the fall four flag football teams were organized into a round-robin schedule. The winners met the faculty in an exhibition game. In addition tennis, golf, and softball programs were set up.

Intramurals turned inside during the winter months. Basketball teams were divided into two leagues. The eight teams of the junior-senior league played fourteen games as did the five teams of the freshman-sophomore league. The gym was opened on Saturday afternoons for ping-pong, shuffleboard, badminton, and girls' basketball.

As spring brought balmy weather, a softball league, a pentathlon-type track program, golf and tennis became popular activities.

PEOPLE

We can boast of our scholarship, our sports, or our activities, but before all of those we must have the people... the people who study and learn, who participate in the sports, and who organize and lead our activities.

It is the people who decide the ultimate atmosphere of West Lafayette through their individual talents and distinctive characteristics. First, we remember those few close friends who shared so many laughs and frustrations with us. Then there are those we worked with, decorating for the Prom or collecting props for the plays. We wonder about the people across the aisle whom we never got to know--the one who wrote for the SCARLETTE or the SCARLET AND GRAY, the one who spilled our chemistry "unknown" on the floor, or perhaps the teacher who sponsored our activities. These are the people of West Side accepting...

With progress as the password, the administrative staff guided the school to another successful year in '63.

Our administrators engage in many varied activities in the course of a school year. Mr. William Floyd, Superintendant of Schools, directs the curriculum, reviews the instruction, and, with the help of a seven-man School Board interviews prospective teachers.

Co-ordinating school principles and policy, and counseling students and teachers are just two of the important jobs of West Side's principal, Mr. Eric Casson.

The secretarial staff is also an integral part of our system at West Side. Arranging schedules, keeping records on file, and answering many questions each day are only three of these efficient women's jobs.

This year the kitchen staff took on a load of work while preparing meals for two lunch shifts. The staff worked under the expert direction of head dietitian Mrs. Norma McIntosh.

Checking the attendance and schedules is only one duty of Mrs. Joan McNintch and Mrs. Esther Blumenfeld.

Freshmen Become Acquainted With Activities,

Capably meeting the challenges and the responsibilities to West Side and their own Class of '66, the members of the Freshman Class became a part of the W.L. tradition.

Many freshmen joined clubs, worked on committees, or participated in various sports.

To represent them, the freshmen chose Bob Brady, president; Tom Dobson, vice-president; Jim Braun, secretary-treasurer; and Teresa VanDenBosch, student council representative. Under these officers and the sponsorship of Mrs. Rolande Er-Selcuk and Mr. William Watkins, the Frosh became acquainted with life at West Side and showed their ability and willingness to contribute to the success of their first year at W.L.

Teresa VanDenBosch, Carole Wright, Donna Dahl, Brenda Lawson, and Nancy Burdick represented their class as freshman cheerleaders.

Working on dances, getting props for the play, learning new rules, meeting new students, becoming acquainted with the many teachers at West Side, and studying in preparation for their classes were some of the many chores of the freshmen.

The striving sophomores entered actively into all areas of high school life as the Class of '65 sailed through their second year. They were led by George Revington, president; John Hutchings, vice-president; Emily Graham, secretary-treasurer; and Sue Straley, student council representative. Aiding the class were the faculty sponsors, Mrs. Elizabeth Leer and Mr. Kenneth Tatlock.

Many sophomores were found in varsity and B-Team sports. Linda Waling headed the B-team cheerleading squad. Debbie Hunt and Katie Curfman were on the squad also. Alice Schuhmann was a varsity cheerleader.

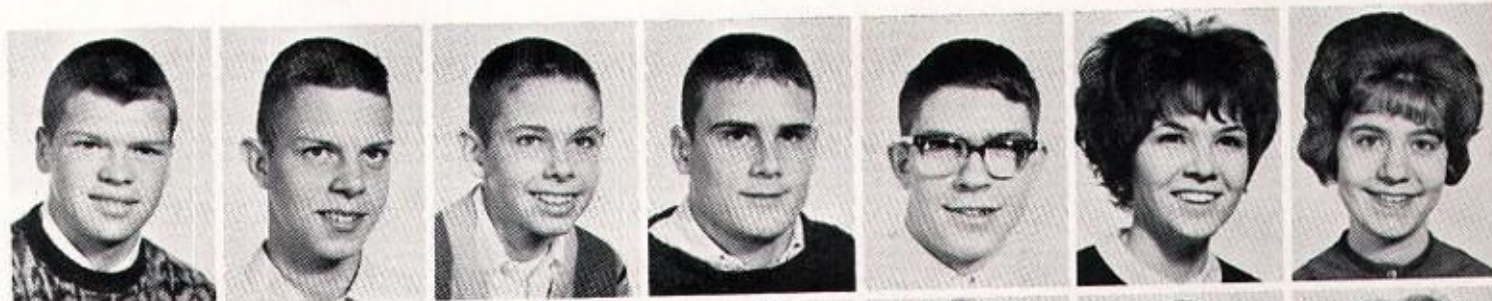

Sue Straley represented her class as secretary of Pep Club, and again as sophomore representative of Speech Arts.

In addition, many second year students were found in both the orchestra and the band. A few of the sophomore musicians were also accepted into the Dance Band and the Concert Choir.

Although in their second year at West Side, the sophomores accepted much of the responsibility about the school in many ways.

Juniors Become Fine Academic Examples

"Just imagine!" yelled the members of the Class of '64 as school opened at the beginning of the year. We're upperclassmen---we're JUNIORS!"

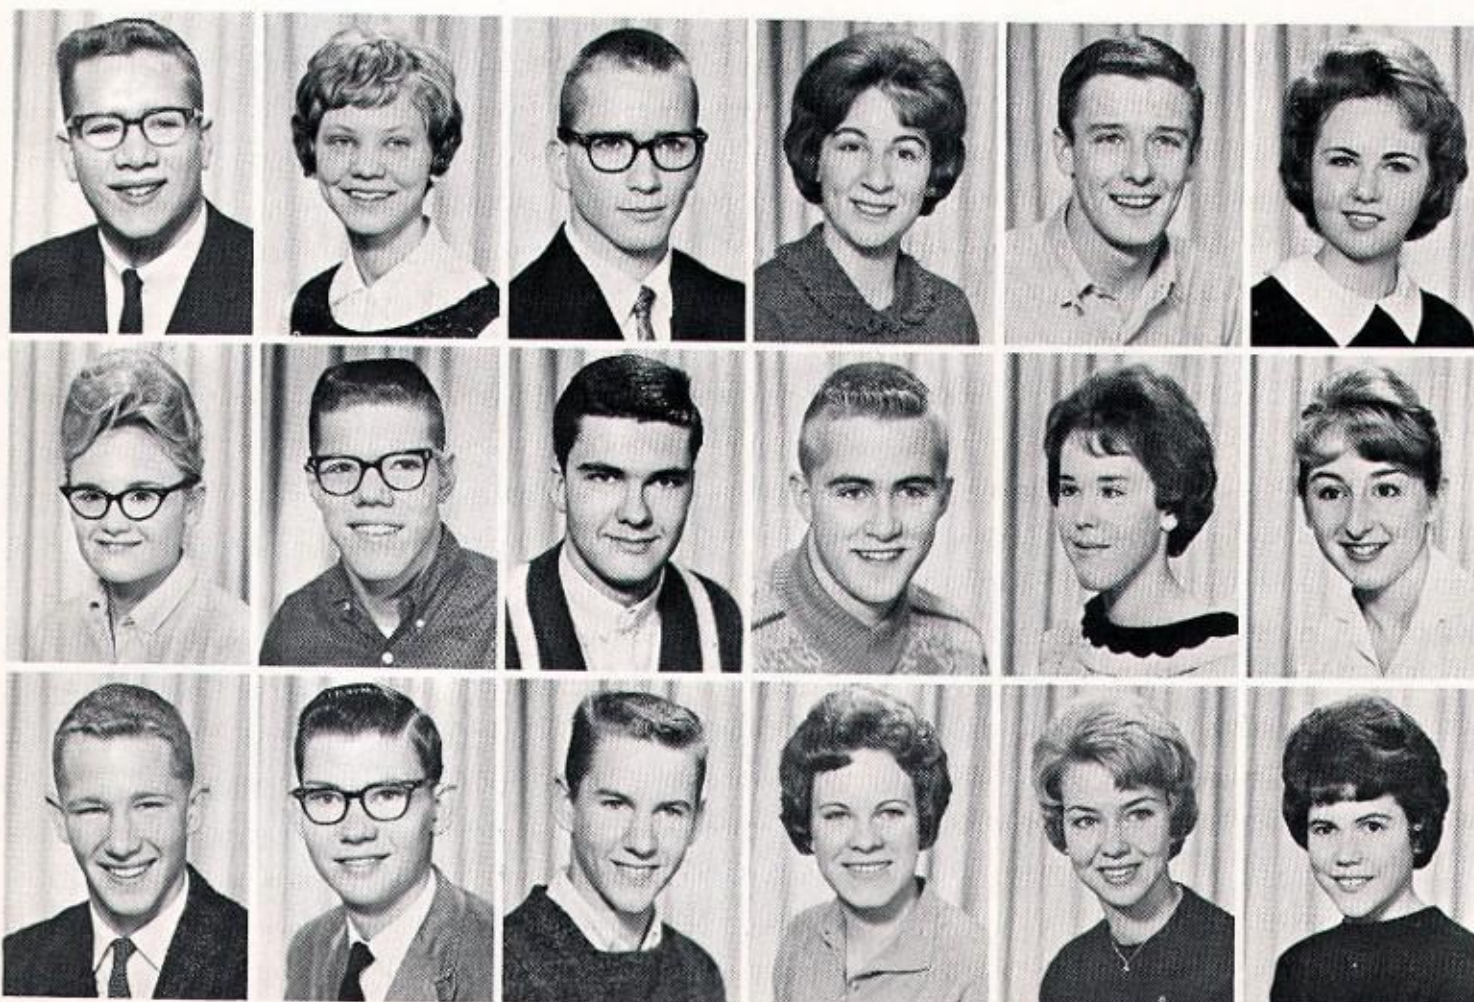

Throughout the entire year the 1964 Junior Class worked diligently at all of its money-making projects to give West Side its "best prom ever" Some of the projects undertaken were a car wash, a mixer, parking cars at Purdue football games, a junior play, and many paper drives. Leadership for the class was provided by the class officers: Bruce Williamson, president; Jim Kelso, vice-president; Linda Million, secretary; John Sorenson, treasurer; and Larry Hilst, student council representative. Jim Kelso and Ellen Williams served as co-chairmen of the Prom. The two Junior Class sponsors, Mr. James Guy and Mr. Oliver Oesch, deserve much credit for the accomplishments of the class.

The class was very well represented athletically with junior boys participating in all of the varsity sports, while four junior girls---Barb Buche, Nancy Harshbarger, Sarah Eddy, and Marilyn Speaker---served as cheerleaders.

Bob Axton acted as Sports editor for the SCARLET AND GRAY, Jim Kelso held down the same post for the SCARLETTE, Rob Gerritsen was the Business Manager for the SCARLETTE, and Pam Highlan was vice-president of Pep Club.

Checking the Prom model are the Junior Class Officers--Jim Kelso, vice-president; John Sorenson, treasurer; Larry Hilst, student council representative; Linda Million, secretary; and Bruce Williamson, president.

Class Of '63 Leave Fond Memories Behind

"1-9-6-3, we're the class of '63!" are familiar words to all of us. We sang this cry at football and basketball games during our four years at West Side.

The gauntlet was dropped and the challenge was accepted when we entered high school in 1959. That year as newcomers we became acquainted with our teachers, classes, and clubs.

As sophomores, we started to fulfill our destiny. We became organized as a unit and learned the importance of working together. We joined clubs, entered scholastic contests and gained a new insight of the true meaning of responsibility. The culmination of the year's activities was our class party.

In our junior year we received our cherished class keys. In the spring we produced the play, "Inherit the Wind". Our major activity was planning and raising money for the Prom. We all recall the numerous Saturday morning paper drives, selling nuts and Christmas candy, and painting skyliners to make "No. 41 Broadway" the "best ever."

During our senior year, we shared the responsibility of service and leadership. We were in charge of the many clubs, the publications, and sports. The senior Student Council members planned the convocations while other seniors served on committees and programs vital to the school's activities. We also won many scholastic contests and thirteen seniors were selected as finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Contest.

To finance a memorable Gala Week, we parked cars, collected papers, and produced a play, "The Matchmaker." Committees planned the parties and programs for Gala Week.

The march to "Pomp-and-Circumstance" marked the end of our scholastic life here. We have fulfilled the challenge to make the class of '63 an outstanding one. But as we leave, we are accepting another challenge. As each of us takes a separate road, we accept the challenge to do the best in whatever we undertake, utilizing the experience gained here to take us farther along the highway of life.

The Challenge

BUSINESS

The core of West Side is made up of our people, our activities, and our sports, but we must have one more chapter to complete our book. West Side is part of a whole community which is continually providing us with services and goods.

There is a continual interaction between the twin cities of Lafayette and West Lafayette and the activities at West Side--Hi-Y pledges selling cokes at basketball games...stores loaning us Christmas decorations for the New Year's Eve dance...grocers selling us refreshments for club meetings...printing programs for the plays.

It is primarily through the financial aid of the local merchants that we are able to publish our SCARLET AND GRAY...just one of the ways they help us as we continue accepting...

As we look back over the past year, we see a year filled with profitable activities in class and out of class. Our responsibility as Co-editors of the 1963 SCARLET AND GRAY was a challenge steeped in learning experiences and midnight oil. Although the Annual kept us busy, we feel that it was an experience that was invaluable to us. Others on the staff put forth a great effort too. We would like to thank again Carole France, Marcia Waler-stein, and Steve Waling for giving us the extra help that we needed.

We are grateful to Mr. Henry Paloncy for giving us the benefit of his experience. We can never show enough gratitude to Miss Ruth Sinks, who has given much of her time and advice. Our experience with her has been so rewarding.

To all of you, we give our sincerest "thanks"

Kay & Dave
